THANKS!

BURTON NEWS

The editorial committee is most grateful to the organisers of the annual Onion Show for their generous donation of £200 towards the cost of producing the Burton News.

BYE

Thank you to all for your thoughts, good wishes and overwhelming number of cards during Joyce's recent illness which sadly resulted in her passing on 22 January 2014. The support has been greatly appreciated and has been a real help to the family in helping to come to terms with their loss. Thanks also for the generous donations to British Heart Foundation and Muscular Dystrophy, not as yet finalised. Les, David, Alison and Carolyn

CRAIG

Thank you, Burton. From the moment Dave collapsed, and First Responders arrived, both Dave and I were in the kindly hands of many of the people of Burton. The help and support given in so many ways will be familiar to those who have suffered similar misfortune to our own, but it was a new experience to me, and welcome. Support came in many forms: offers of lifts, including to Blackpool, to make hospital visits; care for our dog Klipper; callers who came to the house to make enquiries about

Dave, and helped to raise my dwindling morale; gifts to take Dave, and above all concern and knowing that we had so many friends. So thank you, every one of you. Dave is a tough bird, and is making rather a spectacular recovery, and a good bit of that is due to our friends in Burton.

Anne Craig

Children in Need

A total of £125 was donated in 2013 from the collection box at the Post Office. Thank you for your support.

SOUTH WESTMORLAND NEIGHBOURHOOD FORUM

This month it was Burton's turn to host the regularly held meeting of just about the nearest most of us get to Those in the Know. This account is not an exact report of what happened. You'd have to attend more than a single meeting to know that, I suspect. And your reporter knew very few of the participants by name. Most of them GAVE their names of course, or were introduced by our ever-present Dist Cllr.

The meeting was very well-attended. In fact it began to seem as if it might have to be transferred to the main hall. And who did the audience come to see? The interest of the Agenda was wide: Our controversial Police Commissioner; the Manager of a local Nature Reserve; a report by our local PCSO; our local Hospital Voluntary Car Scheme; and Community Grant Applications. Other items on the Agenda were Connecting Cumbria and Community Noticeboard, without a doubt very significant, but not too promising for excitement.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONER'S SPEECH - The Tardis comes to Cumbria

Richard Rhodes was far too experienced to give a "speech." Instead he gave a compelling and perceptive talk which captured his audience's attention, and surely their sympathy too. He dwelt particularly on the plight of young offenders and their spiral of downward progress, with little possibility of breaking out of their disadvantaged background. His talk was anecdotal and absorbing, and bore little relation to the rather unfortunate Press coverage he's had since being elected (only 16% of electors voted, and that, we were told with pride, was the highest vote in any region.) Was this really the man who had turned up to meetings in a hired expensive Merc, giving rise to the suspension of whistle-blowers who were subsequently exonerated, at enormous cost to the authority?

Mr Rhodes is tall with very long legs, and he towered over his audience with his wavy white hair and almost jolly face. He might have been a policeman himself. But he wasn't; he had been a headmaster, and for many years had sat on the Magistrates' bench. He listed his achievements since coming to power: these included enabling the delivery of 90 new and very sophisticated police cars, with easier communication between police officers, using high-grade IT. They sounded like a new edition of the Tardis, buzzing around on wheels. They are unlikely to solve the problem of disadvantaged youth, or of another topic he voiced: the unsettled situation of military veterans, who are another large proportion of the prison population. Nevertheless, the new vehicles will doubtless lift some of the burden off hard-pressed police officers. There were other improvements too. But your reporter was left wondering how many of these would have come about anyway, without the intervention of the Commissioner of Police, yet another costly layer of bureaucracy.

HOLME PARK QUARRY NATURE RESERVE

It was a comforting sort of irony that the following talk was of beauty and good hope. Peter Smith described how this small but fascinating nature reserve is (very effectively) managed. It seems the principal objective is to encourage the successful breeding of butterflies. Bracken is controlled, by beating it down - known as "bruising." This encourages the growth of violets, a key plant in providing food for the rare high brown fritillary. Reg Hesketh showed slides he'd taken over 200 visits to the reserve of the impressive variety of species of butterflies. There were many and they were all exquisite, with the wonderful names that early lepidopterists were inspired to give them: speckled wood, grayling, skipper, brown fritillary, small pearl-bordered fritillary, ringlet, comma, and others this reporter was unable to list, being so taken with the slides that passed before us almost too swiftly to fully appreciate. There was a brimstone, looking rather pallid, and an orange tip with white tips to her wings, which Mr Hesketh explained was because she was female. Tough luck, really, as the orange ones are so attractive. Maybe the males think differently. The ringlet made its first appearance on the reserve in 2010. By 2013, 229 were counted! An encouraging fact for conservationists. All too soon this wonderful array came to an end. But in case it all seems too saccharin and beautiful to the reader of this account, we were reminded of the voracity of nature by slides of a ragwort plant before and after the depredations of the cinnabar caterpillar. Locusts came to mind, as we gazed at the stripped stalk of a plant so recently clothed in leaves.

And: Burton Parish Council Voluntary Car Scheme

This most helpful service is a tribute to the people who volunteer to drive those unable to get to hospital themselves for whatever reason. We were given the stats: In 2011 (census) Burton had a population of 1495, living in 625 households. Of these 348 were over the age of 65 (23%.) There were 85 single pensioners. The Voluntary Car Service performs a key part in giving lifts to those in need, and from the above figures it can readily be seen that a need is likely to arise. (Your reporter has taken advantage of this service and is most grateful for the opportunity, being herself unable to drive when it gets dark.) We were told that in 2013

there was one co-ordinator, and 11 drivers. They drove 25 different passengers and in all made 104 journeys. A real contribution to the community.

Space - and time - dictates that there isn't much room for more. It was revealing to hear the requests for help with funding for community projects (e.g. improved lighting for the Heron Theatre, a project run entirely by volunteers.) Community halls, playgroups, rebuilding a wall collapsing behind a bowling green, were all worthy requests, and apparently endorsed by those entitled to give the green light. Burton News was once the recipient of one of these grants (a new printer) but that was a long time ago.

This report, it must be stressed, is pretty selective and doesn't cover all the subjects brought to the meeting. Your reporter apologises for this. # PC Observations...

Reporting from the Parish Council meeting

The 20 February meeting had almost a full turn-out of Councillors. Chairman Mike Taylor's gavel thumped the desk at 7.30pm as usual and we were off, with Mike seemingly determined to get the meeting over in an hour. 15 items on the Agenda and the first five were over in two minutes, including the Open Forum where the public can voice any concerns they have. (Someone had hopefully set out 8 chairs for the public, but they remained stubbornly empty.)

Planning applications usually take a few minutes as councillors voice their comments about design and access regarding the different proposals. Outline planning applications are particularly disliked as no-one really knows what this means or could lead to. One councillor even branded one outline planning application as "immoral" because it could lead to the applicant making some money if the application was accepted.

Further items on income and expenditure accounts and sundry payments were passed and then item 10 came along. The council is going to buy a 400 kilo plastic grit bin for Tanpits Lane, but should it be green or should it be yellow? Five minutes of debate and nearly a referral to the next meeting but then a decision was made. Item 11 - a feasibility study for a Burton to Clawthorpe footpath will go ahead so that the council can refer those interested to its findings (although the path may never be built.)

The lengthy list of Outstanding Items was finally pruned as councillors abandoned hope of the county council doing anything about several road improvement problems - resurfacing Main Street, repairing verges on Moss Lane, etc. Other items are taking an interminable time but were not dropped, such as the historic Westmorland County sign, road markings at Clawthorpe, Slape Lane upgrading, speed mentoring through the village, Jubilee Walk leaflets, and the Shop Front scheme (time has nearly run out on this one, so next time it will be dropped.) Parish Councillors then individually passed on comments they had received about potholes, storm damage, playground maintenance needs, dog poo and vehicles mounting pavements in a dangerous fashion as they drive through the village. Roger Bingham reported that TanPits Lane flood prevention ("imminent" for some time) was still in that state. In the end Mike didn't get the meeting finished in one hour, but 75 minutes is pretty good going!

Burton's Ancient Stones

At the Neighbourhood Forum held in Burton Memorial Hall (18 February) Kath Hayhurst, Keeper of the Burton Archive, asked for a grant on behalf of the Holme & District Local History Society. This is a part of that report...

For several years we have been trying to establish a heritage corner in Burton church. Recently we have commissioned a local joiner to make a shelf and a box in order to display the ancient cross pieces. We would now like to have interpretation panels for each item.

These stones are the oldest known evidence of settlement in the village: 10th-11th century.

They are all made from coarse/medium grained sandstone, and probably from four different crosses, of the Viking-Anglo/Saxon style.

Mr John Chalmers, the village school master, is said to have "rescued" the cross pieces from various gardens in the village, and brought them back to the church. He died at Beech Cottage in 1921.

The crosses pre-date the church (the oldest part - the tower - is 12th century) and they were probably set up at a place where people met to pray.

If we obtain a grant we would welcome ideas for the design of the panels.

I enclose drawings of the stone cross relics, and the reproduction which appeared on the Millennium Mugs and literature.

Village People...

Born Joan Lawson in Lancaster in 1919, Joan Foster was the fifth of nine children. When she was just a year old her father became signalman on the railway at Yealand and the family moved there to live in the cottage which came with the job. Joan remembers that each time her mother gave birth - at home in those days, as those of you watching Call the Midwife will know - the other children and their father moved into the signal box.

In 1941 Joan married Jim Foster a waggon driver from Burton and they rented Bell Cottage, a typical 1 up, 1 down, in what was then Riggs Yard, now Cocking Yard, for 12s 6d per week. This was to be their home for the next 9 years and where their 3 children were born. In 1950 the family moved to the new council houses being added to Drovers Way.

When Mrs Foster moved into the village 73 years ago the Main Street was home to 4 banks, 2 pubs, 1 temperance hotel, a joiner, 5 grocers, a police station, doctors, vets and a cobbler who not only mended shoes but made clogs and sold shoes. There was a butcher, a garage, a bicycle repair shop, a blacksmith, Miss Bell's cake and baker's shop, a post office, Morewood school, a reading room and, for the sports enthusiasts, a bowling green and tennis court.

At that time a Mrs Newsham sold milk by the jug from a bogey, Mr Rowbotham the photographer lived in the little sweet shop on the east side of The Square and had his studio where Dial House now stands. Doctor Robertson, the public vaccinator, owned the first car in Burton and was driven about by his daughter, who once left Carnforth without him after he put his parcel of supplies, but not himself, in the back of the car and closed the door. The village coal was brought from the canal wharf by horse and cart and the tannery on Tanpits Lane was run by the Bradshaw family. The hides were taken to Carnforth station in a horse and cart owned by Mr Bush, who let the children jump aboard for a ride.

Many years before the swill, or basket, maker lived in the Riggs Yard house that became the Fosters' home. He went out of business and his trough went to paying off his debts, this now can be seen in Croft House field. Mrs Foster remembers the stream coming off the fells, past the cake shop in The Square, across Croft House field to the pond used by the village animals, and another crossing in front of the cottages built for the gas workers, now called Barker Terrace. The retort house and gas works at the bottom of Neddy Hill having closed about 1928.

HOLME AND DISTRICT LOCAL HISTORY SOCIETY AGM

The present Memorial Hall site was home to battery hens owned by a Mr Pemberton and the many other hen huts from Drovers Way to Yealand Lane, which Mrs Foster's husband Jim used to look after and light up each evening. They found that the hens laid more eggs by extending the daylight hours in this way.

Over the years Mrs Foster has been a keen and energetic supporter of village life, a committed member of the WI, the Mothers' Union and the British Legion, where she was standard bearer for 10 years. She was also involved in many activities at the church and the Memorial Hall. Kath Hayhurst tells me that Joan Foster is an accomplished artist. They first met in 1977 at art class and Joan is now the senior member of Burton Art & Craft Society which began in 2005. An example of Joan's work A study of hydrangeas hangs in the reception room of the Memorial Hall, and she also features on the Millennium Mural in the same room, holding a picture of the canal bridge.

Although no longer able to get about as she would like, Mrs Foster retains the independent spirit typical of her generation, still living in the family home where her three children, who no longer live in the village, visit her five out of seven days a week.

Charis Twist

At the AGM of the Local History Society the chairman, Mr Graham Caley, noted that the society was now in its thirty sixth year of operation and thanked all committee members for their work. A successful year of ten walks and talks, a summer outing to Tatton Park and the Christmas Function held in Burton Memorial Hall were reported. Most events were very well attended and enjoyed, with both membership and visitor attendance increasing.

Both Archivists reported a busy and productive year and details of the proposed exhibition in autumn to commemorate the start of WW1 were given.

The meeting voted to re-elect the extant committee and because of rising costs to increase the annual subscription to £12. The visitor charge would remain at £2 per visit. Details of next year's programme were given as well as the Summer Outing to Townley Hall and Queen Street Mill in Burnley. For more information about the society ring 01524 782198.

The AGM was followed by a presentation by Kathryn Smith on the Bayeux Tapestry.

Blood Bikes - A Vital Service

Have you heard of Blood Bikes?

No, neither had we until chatting one day with Dave Alderson of Bay Blinds, who, it transpired, has been a part of this merry band for some months, so we wanted to know more about the Blood Bikes service. Their Chairman, Paul Brooks explains below what it's all about...

What are Blood Bikes, or more specifically what & who are North West Blood Bikes Lancs & Lakes?

North West Blood Bikes Lancs & Lakes, otherwise known as NWBB L&L, went live in May 2012 with the aim to transport blood, samples, breast milk for premature babies, and other urgent medical items out of hours, completely free of charge freeing up vital funds for our local hospitals. To date we have over 220 volunteers and have made in excess of 4,000 collections and deliveries for local hospitals in the 22 months we have been running.

The organisation is always looking to recruit volunteers into a variety of roles, from operational motorcyclists to admin support, duty controllers, and fundraising posts. In addition, the organisation is also looking to attract sponsors to support its continued operation and expansion.

Until we began helping our local hospitals they relied heavily on taxi and courier services to provide them with out of hours urgent transport, costing the local NHS tens of thousands of pounds each year. The formation of NWBB Lancs & Lakes was set to put a stop to this and allow the NHS to spend money on patient care instead. Having now completed over 4,000 runs, at a conservative estimate NWBB L&L have saved the hospitals in excess of £200,000 in 22 months, which would pay the wages of maybe 4 - 5 specialist nurses and more.

Following the lead of other organisations around the country, and staffed by volunteer motorcyclists and controllers, the charity offers an out of hours emergency transport solution to hospitals and other healthcare establishments TOTALLY free of charge.

Our volunteers receive no payment and are not reimbursed with expenses. Most volunteers use their own motorcycles or cars when the weather is bad, however we also provide an emergency service using liveried motorcycles, but in order to ride the liveried bikes our riders must have advanced training, funded by themselves, and assessment rides overseen by two of our trainers who have their own riding schools, given free of charge. First Aid and First Bike on Scene (FBOS) is also given freely to all our volunteers. We have liveried bikes equipped with blues & two's in order to carry out lifesaving emergency collection and deliveries, particularly for whole blood, platelets and drugs, and the riders of these have further specialist training. With assistance from the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), all our riders are trained in the handling and carriage of all the items we carry.

But, the service does more than just deliver blood supplies. For example the Milk Bank at the Countess of Chester Hospital regularly despatches donor breast milk to the Lancashire and Cumbria Hospitals for sick and premature babies. These journeys can cost in excess of £100 and have to be paid for by the receiving hospital. This money will be saved and can again be spent directly on patient care. NWBB Lancs & Lakes are providing this urgent lifesaving transport service to the milk bank (itself a charity) free of charge; and now, funded by ourselves and the people of Lancashire, we have established a satellite Milk Bank, at the Royal Preston Hospital, which serves all the hospitals in Lancashire and the Lake District.

We currently serve Lancashire Teaching Hospitals (Preston &

Chorley), Southport & Ormskirk, Morecambe Bay Hospitals, (Lancaster, Westmorland & Furness), Blackpool, Writington, Wigan and Leigh and East Lancashire Hospitals (Blackburn and Burnley and outlying smaller hospitals.)

Volunteer motorcyclists, controllers, fundraisers and sponsors can contact the organisation via www.nwbb-lancs.org.

Vicar's Letter...

A simple confession

"It's not that I'm against Christian faith, I just like to believe what I believe without a public fuss."

"Christians are entitled to believe what they like but they shouldn't expect their views to be taken into account by those who create laws or run our country."

"The Christian faith should return to its simple origins when it was about one brilliant teacher and those who chose to listen to him."

Well, one of the earliest and simple confessions of Christian faith was Jesus is Lord, but that was never a private belief that didn't "interfere" in public life. The resurrection was proof that God had made Jesus Lord, and therefore that the Jewish authorities should not have killed him; that claim didn't go down well. Before long the Romans realised that Jesus is Lord was a direct challenge to the official line that Caesar was Lord, and the imperial lions were called to deal with the problem. And in the centuries since, many Christians have discovered that this simple confession has been enough to deprive them of their property, their employment, their family and even their life.

So too today. Christian faith is a direct challenge to any authority or power that tries to ignore the risen Lord Jesus. If Jesus is Lord over this world then everything is under his command, including the economy and the weather. If Jesus is Lord then his words must determine what my family believes and how we use our time. Jesus gets to declare what the church must teach and who can be its leaders. And, in the state, Jesus has the right to say when tax is legitimate, what marriage can be and what constitutes a crime.

That's the simple and original Christian faith: "If you confess with your mouth, Jesus is Lord, and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved." (Romans 10:9)

Sincerely,
Graham Burrows

POLICE NEWS

In February the only log of note for the Burton area was a fallen tree in the village. We have been very busy with calls for service due to the bad weather.

In the surrounding area two bikes were stolen from a stable in Holme, they are described as a KONA SHRED grey adults mountain bike, and a burgundy coloured MUDDY FOX suitable for a teenager. Anyone with any information please contact Cumbria Constabulary on 101.

Police in Cumbria asked youngsters to enjoy their half-term holidays in a responsible manner and avoid participating in activities and behaviour that can cause distress to others. School holidays tend to see a rise in the amount of anti-social behaviour incidents Police deal with during the year. In the 2013 February half-term, Police received 539 reports of anti-social behaviour across the county. This was an increase from the previous year where Police received 465 reports during the February half-term holiday of 2012. We urged youngsters to be considerate of other people by playing sports in designated parks and by keeping the noise down at night if they are socialising in residential areas and the community to be tolerant as there will be more children around who will be playing in the area. Police use numerous tactics in the battle against anti-social behaviour involving people of all ages. One of the tactics used to tackle youth anti-social behaviour is community resolutions which provide the Police with a timely, effective and transparent means for dealing with lower level crime and anti-social incidents.

Roger Reports...

from the District & County Councils

The main concerns in February for both SLDC and the councils were the budgets. But as neither had been passed as BN went to press the details will follow next month, but it seems that both the district and the county will accept the Local Government Minister's offer of a 2% subsidy providing that the Council Tax remains static. As Cumbria has to make savings of £22m, to cover a projected overall four year reduction of Council Tax of £88m, some service cuts are inevitable. So far I have not heard of any drastic losses like the Mobile Library or lowering of the Highways Budget - for pot holes! Even so I am glad that the flood abatement work on the A6070 near Holme Park Quarry and on Neddy Hill should have been completed very soon - but how often have I said that?!

The county's subsidies of £33,000 for the Sandgate Hydrotherapy Pool and £47,5500 for the Citizen's Advice Bureaux are remaining, South Cumbria youth services are flourishing and the Youth Council has produced a colourful magazine "BLINK". Attendance at the weekly Youth Club in the Memorial Hall remains high. More worrying are possible cuts in bus subsidies which might affect the mobility of teenagers, as evening and weekend services might go. Last year 167 young people aged between 5 and 19 from around Burton, Holme and Kirkby Lonsdale used the A2BNoW transport card, compared to 135 from Kendal, the next highest area.

School crossing patrols seem to be on the way out as the county cannot recruit lollypop ladies or gentlemen. Unspent funds will go towards the SID (speed indicator device) programme or to flashing 20 mph warning signs such as those outside Morewood School. I am helping the school and parish council sort out potentially dangerous parking on Main Street at the start and end of the school day, and have made enquiries about warning signs - but would these be effective? Please have you any fresh ideas to mitigate this long running problem?

Dallam and Queen Elizabeth secondary schools officially enjoy Outstanding status. At QES 47.91% of pupils come from Cumbria, 35.63% from Lancashire and 16.46% from North Yorkshire and I am currently enquiring how support services like psychiatry, which varies between the pupils' home counties, can be standardised and upgraded.

As Cumbria's Older Persons' Champion I am currently following up checks about safeguarding vulnerable residents in care homes following the notorious abuse suffered by some victims in a north Lancashire care home.

Demography is the statistical basis on which local government works. The 2011 census highlighted that older people now outnumber young people below 16 in South Lakeland. Other population statistics show that, at 95.6% compared to a national average of 80%, South Lakeland has the highest proportion of White British Residents. But minority groups have increased by 2.5% since 2001. 97.8% of residents speak English as their first language; 0.7 % - 754 - residents come from Poland. Polish and British Sign Language (for deaf and hard of hearing people) are the largest alternative languages after spoken English. 53.9% of South Lakeland people are married compared to a national average of 46.6%; 0.2% are in Civil Partnerships. The district has a high proportion of Christian residents at 68.1% compared to a national average of 59.3%, but the local figure has fallen from 79.1% in 2001. A welcome statistic is that crime in South Lakeland has fallen from 4,500 in 2010 to 2,500 in 2013, making us the fourth lowest crime district.

Finally the councils are supporting a Food Festival, which is something people all ages can enjoy! But west Cumbrians, especially, must be careful as Copeland has been reported as the UK's district with the most obese people. Here's hoping we can keep warm and dry.

Historical Footnote...

... by Roger Bingham

BURTON'S CURIOUS CARVINGS

Burton's most important historical artefacts are, arguably, the sculptured stones preserved in the parish church. Pevsner's Buildings of England of 2005, for which I was a local consultant, reported pieces of a 10th or 11th century cross, showing Christ in Majesty treading a serpent with the figures of John and Mary by the empty cross; other fragments have an irregular zig zag and a defaced wheel head. The "serpent" cross is particularly significant as, by mixing heathen Viking symbols with the Crucifixion, it indicates that Burton's Nordic ancestors were less pagan and possibly less savage than they are usually regarded. The Viking and earlier Anglo-Saxon stones which included a wheel-cross were discovered during 19th century restoration work.

In 1892 J. Chambers also recorded "two old carved stones, one in an arch in the south wall near to a piscina" (drain for communion ablutions) which were carved with the arms - "lozenge, argent and sable" - of the Croft family who were Lords of the Manor in the thirteenth century. In 1893 the antiquarian Rev WS Calverley recalled that "in 1844 was found the head of a wheel-cross. It was seen by Mr T. Wilson in a stable near the church."

They were sketched by Mr Chalmers of Burton School and photographed by the village's professional photographer Mrs Sutcliffe. He also made plaster casts and "treated" the sculpture with dilute acid from which he deduced that the "yellowish-white freestone" carvings resembled sculptures of a similar period at Heysham and Halton.

The cross shaft was "of a finer-grained stone, which though hacked with a pick, is very neatly chiselled; but cheap and poor in design as if to get as much appearance as possible with the least expense of invention."

He admired especially "the figure of Christ trampling on the old serpent, whose feeble wings flutter at its neck, while its head writhes round to bite the heel of Christ - who is naked, except for a loin cloth." Regarding John, Mary and the angels "standing by the untenanted cross," he wondered if they had been modelled on "the ante-Norman thanes or ladies of Kentdale."

Thus, he believed these reminders "of stirring folk in a stirring time deserve kindly remembrance and the courtesies of the grave." Curiously, they might, be the earliest depictions of local Burton people.

Mrs Summers and Miss Taggart spent the last fortnight in Kenya working for a Christian organisation supporting a local school. They taught the children everyday, in lessons ranging from English to rounders! We have forged important links that will continue to enrich our own curriculum. This half term in Key Stage 2, Years 5 and 6 are continuing studying Our World. Years 3 and 4 are doing a project on India; the younger children are doing a project on The Seasons. As part of our World Book Day celebrations we are holding an Extreme Reading Competition.

Dallam have been in school delivering PE to children in Years 1, 2 and 5. The younger children have been focusing on multi skills and Yr 5 on football ready for the inter-schools competition later this term. The older children attended a cross-country competition at Heversham and had a super time competing against children from other schools. We entered a Key Steps gymnastics competition where our children performed really well, achieving two second and one third places. Yr 4 have been learning a Bollywood style dance with Miss Jenny. The Yr 5 children won the enterprise day at Dallam, showing what budding business men and women we have!

Our swimmers performed exceptionally well in the Kendal and District Gala winning two wonderful shields. Thank you to Mrs Sisson for organising this for us. 81 children from across Cumbria took part in this year's Ski Course to France. Do have a look at the Facebook Page Cumbria Primary Schools Ski Course to find out more.

Please, please park safely at the beginning and end of the day. Do NOT park on the faded white lines at the entrance to Morewood Drive. We are all of course worried that there may be a horrid accident. If you can walk to school that would really really help.

As a school we are part of the South Lakeland Rural Partnership which is an organisation set up by headteachers to better support schools. We have been lucky to acquire funding to employ a children's counsellor as well as provide Family Support Services. If you feel either of these services would be of benefit to you, do pop in for a chat. If you have a problem, want some further information about an issue or would just like a chat then please contact your child's teacher. If you are still concerned then please come and see me, Mr Thexton our Deputy Head or Mr Wilson, Assistant Head We can all be contacted by email.

Burton W.I. NEWS

At their meeting on the 13 February, Burton WI began their meeting by holding a minute's silence in memory of Joyce Bye, a valued and popular member of Burton WI, who had recently died.

A very interesting talk entitled Capturing your Best Side, by Glynis Bland, photographer, was given and members had the opportunity to look at a wide range of her photographs. The competition for a Photo of Yourself was won by Bobbie Nunn with Linda Green second. The raffle was won by Sue Humphreys

The next meeting will be on Thursday 13 March. Christine Knipe will be giving a talk on the Westmorland County Agricultural Show. The competition will be for A Farm Animal Ornament.

BOOTCAMPING IN BURTON

You can now Boot Camp at Burton Recreation Ground (behind the Royal Hotel) on Monday and Wednesday nights. Boot Camps are great fun and great for releasing tension - and just being out in the fresh air for an hour has to be good for you! And they are held in all weathers. Go along for a taster session and see how brilliant you feel afterwards.

Camps are run by Neil Spooner a highly motivated and experienced Personal Trainer with expertise in weight management, human biomechanics, functional movement, exercise, strength and conditioning.

You can ring Neil to book a session on 07912 646123 or just go up there on Mondays & Wednesdays, 7.30pm start to see what goes on, or be there for 7.15pm to have a chat with Neil.
