ROSE QUEEN 2011

Dear BN

SID (Speed Indicator Device)

I wholeheartedly agree that a SID could help to slow down traffic passing through our village. However, as in so many things, SIDs are not all equal, so I think it would be worthwhile for the Parish Council to undertake a bit more research before committing themselves to buying one.

I spent quite some time last year motoring through France, and was interested to see that every village there has its own approach to limiting speed, including a wide variety of SIDs. Of course in France it is the elected local mayor who decides, rather than some faceless bureaucrat based in Carlisle!

The SID on the road south out of Crag Bank is terrible. It simply flashes your speed in amber, whatever speed you are doing. It is just a distraction from concentrating on the road. Some of the better ones only flash your speed if you are exceeding the limit, so don't distract law-abiding motorists.

Some I have seen flash your speed in red if you are exceeding the limit, and green if you are within the law. Some even have a frowning face if you are exceeding the limit and a smiley face if you are not – no teacher would ever underestimate the power of the smiley face!

It really is important to understand the effectiveness of these various devices before deciding which would be best for us. Cheapest is not always best!

Tony Toubkin, Thornleigh Drive, Burton

Thank you to everyone who came and supported the recent Fashion Show at the Memorial Hall. A big thank you also to those who helped set everything up and clear away afterwards, to those who manned the door and the raffle, provided refreshments, yummy cakes, and the raffle prizes, to BADS for the use of their catwalk staging, lights and sound systems and to Barry for doing the necessary with them on the night.

Also a HUGE thank you to Spirit of the Andes at Hornby who offered to do the show for us, to Annette and her team of models, and to everyone else who helped in every way - including our very own Ernie Entwistle who was conscripted as a model at the last minute! # Outdoors

From the rock where I like to sit, near the path over to Hutton Roof from the high point of the Clawthorpe/Lupton road, splendid vistas reach off westward to the broad hump of Black Combe near Barrow, northwest to Coniston Old Man/Scafell/the Langdale Pikes, north to the peaceful valleys of Kentmere, Long-sleddale, and Bannisdale, and away eastward into the Yorkshire of Wensleydale and Barbondale. You open the wings of your mind and off you soar above estuaries and villages and motorway, heading for the sunlit blue ramparts of many mountains.

Those fells are mostly made of Skiddaw and Borrowdale slate and rhyolite. Back here you're bedded in the limestone, carboniferous limestone laid down on the bed of subtropical seas 300 million years ago. Boney ridges of it girdle Farleton Fell from west to east. They drop in five - or ten-metre steps. Then they stop and the road runs through a saddle of pasture grasses and bracken, over a pass which would be a nick in Yorkshire, a col in Scotland, and a gap in Australia. The rock steps resume behind my back, towards Uberash Breast and the trig point, and now their risers face north instead of south. It's as though several giant flagstones have slumped down into the cellar and left us looking at the cross-sections of the neighbouring ones. The great floor of fossil rock must have split hereabouts, when tectonic shifts buckled the Earth's crust, at a time when mountains were being upheaved.

The calcium carbonate of the rocks came from the shells of trillions of sea creatures, clustered as close as mussels, oysters, or corals today. Nothing like Britain existed at that time. An ocean covered this part of the globe. All the geology writers make it sound uncannily peaceful: 'little sand or mud was being carried into this part of the sea, and the water must have remained clear.' And this ancient state of our Earth is all visible and tangible as you walk and scramble through the fells. You skirt 300-million-year-old cliffs and pavements and notice brownish boulders jammed into the grikes, chunks of 200-million-year-old gritstone carried here by a glacier from somewhere in Lunesdale 20,000 years ago - a sandy stone from 'a delta which built out over the Carboniferous Limestone, and thereby signalled the end of clear, tropical seas.'

So we can walk ourselves back into the great spaces of the past. The time-scale is vast and it is intelligible. Through the ever deeper probes by scientists, we can get to know what the Earth and life are made of and how they started. If I understand the bigger picture aright, particles and gases swarm in the universe. Here and there, from time to time, they accrete into stars, like the sun, and finally into planets, like the Earth. One day these will all have disintegrated again, swarmed and circulated, and accreted into new forms. It has taken years and years for me to know this securely and physically, without a shred of fantasy or myth. Walking and climbing among the crags of Cumbria (and Scotland) has greatly helped the process.

Roger Reports...

Thanks to a central government grant, South Lakeland District Council has followed the county council, and most other authorities, and will not be increasing SLDC's share of the Council Tax for 2011-12.

Debates about the inevitable 'cuts' are continuing and the reduction of employees is on target, the majority mainly as a result of voluntary redundancy etc; but, as 'shadow' portfolio holder for Housing and Development I was happy to support an increase in hours for our Homeless Persons Officer, and to the allocation of £1m to be spent over four years on housing across the district, which will include £500,000 to fund 15 'affordable' homes.

Lower priced and rented homes are behind the still controversial Local Development Framework. Of the 100 or so direct responses which I and my fellow District Councillor have received many people are concerned about the capacity of the highways, sewerage, the size of the school and lack of village-based services like doctors, banks and a library to cope with 'over-expansion.' Worries about individual sites include skyline development east of Morewood Drive and Church Bank, the creation of a 'false urban' approach to the village at the Dalton Lane corner, along with concerns about traffic and parking. Comments about the LDF can be sent into Dan Hudson, SLDC Development Officer at South Lakeland House, Lowther St., Kendal, LA9 4UQ, before 15 April.

An SLDC 'green' development is that we are considering acquiring electrically powered waste collection vehicles (like big milk floats) as part of our carbon reduction programme. Following a widely reported fatality involving a council lorry, all SLDC waste vehicles now have automatic reverse warning sirens.

On road safety there is to be a Timber Routes Survey for roads leading to the Hutton Roof Yard. Also when I attended Hutton Roof Parish Council I observed a night-time Mountain Rescue exercise on the Craggs which followed MR's first ever call out to our area last year. Hopefully MR will also include Farleton Knott and the Fell in their training.

Roads as always are at the top of my concerns. The county's highways budget has been boosted by a government 'pot-holes' grant of £2.7m. Apart from on-going pot hole work, the long damaged railings have been replaced on the Dalton - Kirkby Lonsdale Road, and the Quarry is to step-up cleaning of the A6070 as far as Farleton.

Attempts to cope with the flooding near the quarry entrance, and also under the railway bridge on Moss Lane, have encountered complications over the shared responsibility of the highways authority and adjacent landowners. I have asked the county to do at least emergency repairs and sort out the legalities later!

Amongst county grants which are being more or less safeguarded are £44,000 to the Sandgate Hydrotherapy Pool; £47,000 to local Citizen's Advice Debt Management service; and £144,591 for Local Members' Schemes. The latter should enable me to continue to provide funds for the Parish Lengthsman, and possibly some capital improvements, e.g. perhaps to the recreation area as well.

As a member of the Yorkshire Dales National Park Authority I am concerned about plans to cut representation down, as I believe that it is crucial for our area to be represented as we are 'trapped' between the Lake District and the Dales parks, which - because they have extra protection - increases the development pressure on parishes like Burton and Holme.

Several people have contacted me about 'cold callers', many of whom are young ex-offenders selling cleaning materials. Apparently it is not illegal for them to call after dark but if you have any worries about them or possibly bogus callers please ring Cumbria Police at 0845 3300 247 or Consumer Direct 08454 04 05 06.

Finally, a reminder that there will be a district council election for a fellow councillor to myself on Thursday 5 May. I will be eligible for re-election next year. Applications for postal votes must be in before 14 April. Please apply to Election Services SLDC, South Lakeland House, Lowther St, Kendal, LA9 4UQ. Call Centre 0845 050 4434.

Best wishes

Fundraising poetry book

The children of Burton Morewood School have been celebrating their personalities and talents in a new fundraising poetry book, published to raise funds for new outdoor play equipment.

The book is called 'A Celebration Of Me' and every child in the school contributed to the poetry about their lives, their families and themselves. Delightful full colour illustrations by many of the children accompany their work.

The fundraising book is being sold in both the school and the village shop, and 50 extra copies have been printed for the community to help support Burton school by buying the book. It costs just five pounds and all the proceeds go to the school. It would make a great present.

Please buy a copy and help the children of your village have more fun at playtime.

An Opinion...

Commenting on the goings-on at the Parish Council meetings

Tilting at Windmills

Ten years ago, when An Opinion first took on the task of reporting the "goings-on" of the Parish council, it was with reluctance and at the request of the Parish Clerk herself.

At the time, no report of the Public Forum, or of local police activity appeared in the council minutes. Indeed when A.O. began her reports, there WAS no Public Forum, and the-then PCllrs accepted its introduction with some cynicism. And the minutes didn't cover all the side issues – in fact on the instructions of one particular chairperson only matters on which a vote was taken were deemed necessary to be included in the official minutes.

A.O. makes no claims to know much about local government – or about any government of any sort at all. Her aim was always to portray proceedings as a local resident looking on from the outside. Writing An Opinion is a bit like writing a letter, but one that is read often by people who she will (perhaps fortunately for herself!) never meet. A strange feeling of goodwill usually overcomes A.O. as she writes. But sadly and understandably this feeling is not always reciprocated by parish councillors.

Times change. The present clerk, Peter Smith, writes impeccable minutes, whose accuracy could rarely be disputed – least of all by A.O. herself. This poses the question: "So what's the point of A.O.'s column now?" The answer is: not much, really. And at this particular meeting, A.O. felt herself to be in the uncomfortable position of being outside the genuinely-held opinions of most of those present, including those attending the Public Forum.

If, as Tim Farron, our MP, who generously gave up part of his evening to give the annual address, tells us that there is a need for 3000 homes in the area, one has to suppose he has his facts right, never mind how wary we all are of MPs by now.

No-one present – and that includes A.O. - wanted to see the proposed increase of 150 houses in Burton. That's an increase of around 25% (there are 600+ residencies at present.) The strain on the infrastructure would clearly be enormous - the school is already over-subscribed, for example, and yet another extension would impinge on its already dwindled open space. And should we be encouraging more cars to the area? Aren't we committed to trying to restrict carbon emission? And so on.

CHIROPODIST HOME VISITS

Ian McCutcheon

MSSCh, Dip. Pod. Med., MBChA

Tel. Burton 781383

But is all this a replay of King Canute? The population increases and increases. If housing isn't there, how else can its needs be provided for, thinks A.O. helplessly. Not for no reason are we trying to colonise the moon. At least if houses were built there they wouldn't spoil anyone's view. So one by one objections to building sites on the east side of Burton were rejected. A site suggested for industrial building was rejected at Clawthorpe, behind the present enterprise site. That would be better as housing, it was thought. But all the other sites on the east side were rejected out of hand. Except that it was agreed that the field behind the tennis courts would be best reserved for community use. N.B. Details of specific reasons are given for all sites in the council minutes.

As reported by A.O. in last month's B.N., the over-riding feeling seemed to be that if housing had to be built, it should be up Tarn Lane. Earlier in the meeting most PCllrs had declared an "interest." One PCllr asked for a "prejudicial" interest to be recorded, on the grounds that he didn't want to see houses at the back of his own house. Well, A.O. had better declare an interest, then. Her house is hugger-mugger already. And very satisfactory for all of that. But if houses go up in Tarn Lane, she suspects her last view of fields will disappear – from her toilet window.

But if PCllrs are prepared to tolerate housing in Tarn Lane, why on earth did the majority vote 5:3 against planning permission for a single wind turbine at the top of the service road leading off Tarn Lane? No mention was made of any thought being given to the vital question of renewable energy in the new massive building project that is proposed (as it wasn't in the recently-built Boon Town houses. And not proposed, apparently in the Royal Hotel project. Shouldn't those who oppose wind power so vociferously be getting their own houses in order, so to speak?)

Yes, it's true most of us want the village to stay as it is. But stuff happens. Nothing stays the same even in a lifetime. Look at it positively. As the village expands, maybe we'll get a few more members for the Bowling Club.

The Annual Parish Meeting

Tim Farron, M.P., was the guest speaker at the meeting. He was accompanied by Mrs Jocelyn Holland, who presented the Chairman with the Quality Status certificate, and remarked how well-kept the village seemed, and how important the Quality Status was, as it gave residents confidence in the Parish Council. She added that the status didn't give the PC power to raise funds.

Housing Solution - part one.

Tim achieved the unusual by delivering his talk in the permitted time, even managing an amusing anecdote, which wouldn't look funny if A.O. wrote it down. He stuck to the point, outlining local PC achievements, and stressing the importance of maintaining services at Westmorland General, which are in danger of being leached away to Lancaster. In particular he gave as an example the foreseeable loss of highly-qualified night staff in what's left of the cardiac unit. (He didn't put it quite like that!)

As an aside he said he was "incandescent" at bankers. After answering a few questions (none controversial), he was thanked for his talk by the PC Chairman.

Normal PC annual business then resumed, with the Chairman giving his annual report, which will appear in full in the PC Newsletter. As usual the Minutes were thorough, and A.O., on this occasion as always, recommends them to readers, as her account above doesn't cover all the matters under discussion.

The Vicar Writes...

Grace is greater

John Newton, the converted slave trader and author of Amazing Grace, wrote many other hymns. Below is one of my personal favourites. In it, Newton poetically describes how a biblical understanding of the death of Jesus changed his life.

*In evil long I took delight,
Unawed by shame or fear,
Till a new object struck my sight,
And stopped my wild career.*

*I saw One hanging on a tree,
In agony and blood,
Who fixed His languid eyes on me,
As near His cross I stood.*

*Sure, never to my latest breath,
Can I forget that look;
It seemed to charge me with His death,
Though not a word He spoke.*

*My conscience felt and owned the guilt,
And plunged me in despair,
I saw my sins His blood had spilt,
And helped to nail Him there.*

*A second look He gave, which said,
"I freely all forgive;
This blood is for thy ransom paid;
I die that thou mayst live."*

*Thus, while His death my sin displays
In all its blackest hue,
Such is the mystery of grace,
It seals my pardon too.*

At the cross we see the horrible extent and enormity of our sin. When we get the chance, we kill our Creator. Yet at the same time we see in the cross the amazing love of God for sinners. The sight that exposes our sin is the exact same sight that reveals God's grace in dealing with our sin. If our faith is in Christ and his death for us, the guilt of our sin is cancelled.

This is something John Newton never forgot. Towards the end of his life he was asked about his health. He confessed his failing faculties. "My memory is almost gone," he said, "but I remember 2 things: I am a great sinner, but I have a great Saviour."

May we remember those same two things this Easter: Yes, our sin is great, but God's grace in Christ Jesus is greater. The Bible says "Where sin increased, grace increased all the more..." (Romans 5:20,21) Happy Easter!

Paul

Historical Footnote by Roger Bingham

A famous writer admires Burton's "Easter Sculpture"

About 90 years ago the author W.G. Collinwood started his renowned book on The Lakes of England by describing a visit to Burton. Past Carnforth we are soon in Westmorland, but from the train there is little to see. The glimpse of the distant mountains is gone and there are only green hills cut up into fields, monotonous and bare. But among the green hills there are villages in hiding. Let us leave the train at the wayside station, Burton and Holme, and follow the leafy lane to the little town that stands at the foot of the rising limestone fell. Eight or nine hundred years ago this was 'Borton in Kent-dale'; it is down in Domesday Book (1085). Under Charles II it was made a market town and then became a centre for the corn trade of the neighbourhood; the old fashioned comfortable looking houses round the market place, with its cross, give it a Cranford like air of retired respectability, clean and tidy, though they are irregular and picturesque. If one were an artist who painted short-waisted lasses in beaver bonnets, smock-frocked farmers, and young bucks in bottle green swallow tails here would be the backgrounds; and the clean limestone of the neighbourhood which goes so well with green leaves and grass, makes one say, "I have seen this in a picture somewhere!" And yet I have never heard of anyone painting Burton. Through the long street and out of the town at the north end stands the church. It is always worth looking into a church (where) very often restoration and rebuilding has brought to light fragments of ancient times quite as valuable as all that has been destroyed in the process; and here it was the case. In a corner there are some dusty stones; one is the shaft of a grave cross set up over some thane or lady even earlier than Domesday. See the elaborate interlacing of knots on one edge and the maze pattern on the other, like that of a Viking brooch, and these rude reliefs on the face. The carver knew little of anatomy, but no doubt he meant that figure under the crooked arch for Christ rising from out of the cave tomb, with the glory round His head, and the palm branch and the cross in his hands, while he tramples underfoot the old serpent, writhing round to attack Him in vain. Overhead there are Mary and John and the untenanted Cross: "He is not here; He is risen". And now is that not something for the start of our journey?

HAVE YOU EVER VISITED THE HOLME PARK QUARRY LOCAL NATURE RESERVE?

The entrance to the Local Nature Reserve is off Clawthorpe Lane, or it can be accessed by an interesting walk from the A6070 on the footpath which just reads Public Footpath and which goes south of Holme Park Quarry and across the Clawthorpe Fell National Nature Reserve - itself a very interesting area of limestone pavement.

To have the best chance of seeing butterflies in the reserve you ideally need a warm sunny day when, in Spring, you may see the beautiful primrose yellow Brimstone. In April look out for Small Tortoiseshell, Peacock, Red Admiral, Comma, Holly Blue, Speckled Wood, Orange-tip and the whites (Large, Green-veined and Small). They have been recorded on the reserve during April since records began in 2003, though not every year.

Later in the year you may spot the nationally rare High Brown Fritillary and other fritillaries which enjoy the limestone environment. Less common are UK priority species, three of which have made appearances some years on the reserve during May. These are Dingy Skipper, Small Pearl-bordered Fritillary and Wall Brown.

The reserve also has a varied range of flora for such a comparatively small area. There is woodland on limestone pavement in the east, grassland with scrub and bracken and the planted bund which acts as a screen from quarry operations.

There is also a viewing platform at the top of the bund from which you not only get a bird's eye view into Holme Park Quarry, but can read the Information Board which tells how limestone was set down 350 million years ago. If you do visit the reserve please take a minute to read the welcome sign on the gate or visit the web site.

The Reserve is managed by a small committee of local residents and is chaired by the Cumbria County Council Ecologist. Local enthusiasts record butterflies and plants in the reserve but we have no record of bird activity and would welcome somebody to help with this. Or if you would simply like to get involved in any other way please contact the Reserve Manager on 782198.

COMMUNITY TRANSPORT - DRIVERS NEEDED

Community Transport South Lakeland can help you with transport difficulties by providing a local volunteer driver and car to take you to medical appointments, hospital or other visits, shopping trips or social journeys.

A small charge is made for each journey and the volunteer driver will usually wait a reasonable length of time to take you home from your appointment or shopping trip.

Burton is fortunate in having its own coordinator, Lyn Herd, but her pool of drivers is getting smaller and the service desperately needs some new drivers.

All expenses are reimbursed, including a 40p a mile charge, and there is no fixed commitment to do any particular journey or day.

If you are interested in being a driver either call Lyn on 781905 or call the Kendal Office on 01539 742637 for an information pack.

Please give some thought to supporting this charity, just one journey a month would be much appreciated.

CALLING ALL CRAFTERS!

Would you like to sell your craft items and help us raise funds for the memorial Hall at the same time? You can, please read on...

We will be holding a craft market in the Memorial Hall on the weekend of 1 and 2 October 2011, and would like to hear from anyone who makes craft items and who would like to sell them at this event. Self-made craft items only please.

Space will be limited to around 25 tables, so please let us know soon if you want a space by contacting Anne on 781306 or Helen on 782277 for a booking form and more details.

The event will be in aid of Hall funds, with all table fees and refreshment profits going to the Hall.

Beattie goes to Croatia

Beattie, our MG sports car, missed her holiday last year. She had only a jaunt or two around the Lakes and Dales. We determined to put matters to rights this year and plumped to let her take us to the island of Krk in Croatia, formerly a part of Yugoslavia, with her friends in the MG Owners' Club.

With hood down we left Burton at noon on 1 Sept. to travel to Hull for the overnight ferry to Rotterdam with our chums from Gressingham. On boarding at about 6pm we met up with other northern cars on the same trip and, during a mill pond crossing, chatted with them, ate well and had a glass of wine or three before retiring to our cabin. Tip - if you like to spread out and don't like climbing ladders to go to bed book a 4 berth cabin - the shower rooms are bigger too!

We disembarked early next day and set off for our hotel in Monchengladbach in Germany. The journey on main roads/motorways was through Holland and Germany's uninviting flat agricultural and industrial landscape. It was somewhat tedious but was relieved by a chance encounter at a service stop, when a British MG enthusiast who was travelling around Europe came to talk to us about our cars, and was joined by a chap we discovered was the general manager of EK Brakes in Lancaster.

That afternoon in our hotel we were joined by the rest of the party who had motored across from Calais, a distance of 270 miles or so. We were now 25 cars in total.

Next morning, we left our hotel to travel to the motorail terminal in Dusseldorf via the very, very unusual Dusseldorf Meilenwerk Car Collection. The Meilenwerk building is probably 60 years old, is semi circular in shape and was built as an engine shed to repair and accommodate 30 or so steam locomotives. It was acquired, after being made redundant as an engine shed, by classic car enthusiasts and professional restorers who made it into what it is now: a large showroom in which to exhibit classic and vintage cars for sale. Ranged around the showroom are quality workshops with offices etc. above. The building also houses a renowned café/restaurant. Admission is free. Cars exhibited for sale at the time of our visit included a Heinkel bubble car [20,000 euros] a monster American saloon and many mouth-watering British, Italian and German sports cars.

Later we gathered at the motorail terminal to load onto the overnight train to Villach in Austria. Teutonic efficiency seems to end at railway stations. It took 3 hours to load our cars, after which we settled into our overnight 'kennels'. Mellowed by a half bottle of Chilean red wine - note Chilean - provided by the train operator, we relaxed and admired the fabulous scenery as we ran alongside the River Rhine toward Austria. We had not realised how busy the Rhine is - cruise ships and large commercial barges, haughtily overlooked by magnificent 'castles' sited high above the river on wooded slopes, seemed to be almost nose to tail.

After a 05:30 alarm call the next day we ate a decent packed breakfast, disembarked from the train and drove on a cloudy morning from Villach to join the motorway to pass through Slovenia to Croatia. The journey was uneventful save for long queues at toll booths - border crossings ironically were swift to pass through.

Once in Croatia we left the main roads, and travelled on minor roads through countryside not a lot different from ours, although much more wooded. After crossing the magnificent bridge connecting mainland Croatia with the island of Krk we slowly drove to our hotel, our base for the next week - the Blue Waves in the village of Zidaric near the resort of Malinska.

The hotel was quite as good as we had been led to believe - 3 years old, well-furnished and on the beach. The beach was, however, shallow and stoney and the sea was cold but the walks along the beach to nearby villages were great. The weather for the week was a little 'iffy' - certainly not sunbathing weather but not awful.

We toured around the island and saw WW2 memorials, including a very touching one in Dobrinj in the centre of the island. This comprised a series of 3 reliefs depicting partisans resisting the Germans, Germans executing partisans, and partisans taking their revenge at the end of the war. We visited lovely coastal villages, vineyards, marinas stuffed with mainly German yatches and enjoyed our contact with the friendly Croatians, who seem to like 'us Brits', or at least our MG sports cars; especially so the police in the town of Krk, outside whose police station we parked.

Fine dining in the hotel we did not experience but our group, having complained about a poor semi-formal dinner earlier in the week, were rewarded by the hotel management pulling out all the stops and providing us with an 'Old Time Gala Dinner'. The meal comprised of a cold appetiser, a soup, a hot appetiser, a first main course, coffee and sorbet, a second main course and then a dessert, in that order. Afterwards we had the privilege to listen to one of the best close harmony groups I have ever heard. To the accompaniment of accordian, guitar and cello, the 8 chaps sang of love and the sea, or so we were told.

Our return journey to England was relatively uneventful, although one of the cars: a Midget from Chorley, conked out in Austria and could not be repaired in time for it to come with us on the train; and the heavy rain in Germany and Holland meant that we travelled hood up to the ferry and indeed off the ferry home.

I think Beattie enjoyed it. She ran without a hitch and returned on her 3.9 litre V8 engine around 30 mpg - thanks Stuart!

Editorial...

Cuts, cuts and more cuts!

We were saddened to read in the Parish Council Newsletter that the Aggregate Levy Fund is to be ended this year: yet another blow to community projects. The PC has requested a rethink, and hopefully it will give pause for thought to the Secretary of State. Whether it amounts to a repeal of the decision, or a partial reprieve remains to be seen, but if you don't ask you don't get! One has to wonder where all these cuts are going to lead us - will there be any public services left at all, and if so will we still need any public servants? Not a lot of point having them, and paying their wages, if they have nothing to oversee?

No cuts here it seems...

The predators who try to con us out of our hard earned cash are not seeing any recession - far from it, they are all out in force and evermore resourceful in how they try to trick us. The doorstep caller still exists but these days it's more likely to be a phone call / letter / e-mail purporting to be from a legitimate company to make themselves more credible. An old adage, "If it sounds too good to be true, it usually is," applies; recently there has been an increase in the number of phone calls claiming to be from Microsoft and saying that they have detected problems with your computer... stop right there - you will never get such a phone call from Microsoft or any other company for that matter (it won't be long before the names of the major anti-virus companies will be used as well.) Be firm and tell these people that you know they are fakes then put the phone down. They'll get the message!

Patching things up...

Those dratted pot-holes that is - some of the very bad ones have been plugged at last, but how long will the plugging of such large holes survive the vagaries of the weather and traffic? How much of the gratefully received funds released to deal with these pot-holes will be wasted by patching, instead of the costlier, more disruptive but longer lasting 'strip and re-lay' of the road surface? Time will tell...
