Readers' LETTERS

Dear Editor,

A thorn between the roses!

After reading this months issue of BN (Oct) from cover to cover, I always find it really heartwarming to read about all the effort that the community contributes in terms of making Burton look good. Planting trees, daffodil bulbs, village hall improvements, repairing play equipment... the list goes on, and following the latest good news, that the butchers is to re-open as a butchers and buck the trend of yet another empty shop on the high street, Burton is set to flourish!

My gripe (and I'm sure I'm not alone) is that everyday as I drive to and from work I am drawn to the absolute state of what once was the Royal Hotel. It is now somewhat delapidated and the metal screens at the windows are more in keeping with a city centre building site. Does anyone know what is to be done with it and when? It is letting the side down and undoing all your hard work for sure!

Dear Editors,

Walking Away!

I am secretary of a group of walkers that frequently visited the village and surrounds using Slape Lane extensively. Three years ago we decided not to return due to its appalling condition in most months of the year. A sad loss for us, but also the local community that has lost some trade; perhaps not a lot but our group did make purchases from the local shop and enjoyed light lunches at the Kings Arms. I know that other walking groups have done likewise.

Morris Evans (no relation) has made an inexpensive suggestion on how to improve the lane (BN August issue) but it seems the PC have now given up and the suggestion to wear wellingtons is clearly not from anyone who walks any distance. Slape Lane is of importance and should not be ignored; more important I would suggest than daffodils, however "wild".

Dear BN,

Having moved to Burton in Spring to be near my brother, Dave Williamson and his family I am now looking for part-time administration/accounts based work in or close to the village.

After starting work in a bank, setting up and running our own sports business before going on to work as Senior Accounts Supervisor at Forbo, Lancaster my present part time job is in Morecambe.

I am looking for 18-21 hrs per week either for a single employer or a few hours each for various small businesses. My experience includes setting up and running business routines and procedures, many computer software programmes, both packaged and bespoke, including Microsoft Office, Sage Line 50 Professional. Practical, efficient, effective, calm and capable of working with or without supervision.

If you think I can be of assistance in your business then ring 781902 or email charist@talktalk.ne

Thank you.
Charis M. Twist

Thanks!

I would like to thank all my kind friends in the village who sent me cards and gifts for my 97th birthday, making it an enjoyable day.

The fantastic final total from our Open House is £705.40. Many thanks to everyone who supported us, either by coming on the day or the generous donations we received. Thanks to all our family for their help.

Special thanks to our good friend Hilary who baked the scones on the Sunday morning at no cost to us. Also to Kath Duckett and Linda McCutcheon who worked hard all day, and to Gill and Akis and May Dodge for their continued support.

NSPCC service centres open across the UK. These centres combine so many incredible services that will help the most vulnerable children in our society. Their doors are opening to thousands of children who have suffered cruelty, abuse and neglect, thanks to you, these children can get vital help and support.

Neglect, the failure to meet a child's most basic needs, such as food, shelter, love and support, is a tragic reality for thousands of children. It's happening in every town and every city. It is entirely unacceptable, but your support means that these children have a brighter future.

Outdoors

Some sloths in South America move so slowly and spend so much time motionless that green algae grows on their fur. Now I know the feeling. All through this back-end, water has fallen and flooded and oozed and seeped and welled and ponded and overflowed and.... The climax was on September 24. We drove to Kendal under thick grey overcast and at once had to go at walking pace through three floods on the A6070. Water was pouring out of Clawthorpe lane-end and the central white lines were barely visible. At least water no longer collects a foot deep near the football field. Years ago, before they sorted the drainage, I towed a Mini out of there with an old nylon climbing rope I used to keep in the tailgate. Bob Mason once told me that when the M6 was being built and local drainage installed, villagers asked for large-bore piping on that stretch of the A6070 - a lesser diameter was used - hence the years of flooding.

On the dual carriageway traffic was slowing to a halt just after the turn-off to Grange and Barrow. For 45 minutes we crawled and stopped and crawled again, until we neared the Prizet service station. Water was flooding out of the side road over to Brigsteer and police were shepherding vehicles through in batches, north- and south-bound alternately. Next morning the rain-gauge in the garden was brim-full - 50mm. For days after that new ponds and streams and water-sheets kept appearing as the waterlogged land poured out its burden. Boon Walks path became a rivulet, which has grooved out a channel two inches deep and six inches across. Somebody had the sense to place five stones as a dam, to deflect the water into the drain and stop it from washing detritus onto the Square. Two days later the stones had been neatly piled to one side, ready for future deluges.

Down on the Moss, fields turned as usual into shallow lakes and their water lapped to within six inches of the road. The grass has mostly reappeared now. While the water was still up, six mute swans had moved in, just west of the farm. They paddled and cruised, serene above their reflections like sailing ships in harbour. One afternoon four of them took off and dazzled about, wings flashing, apparitions of the purest white, air and light incarnate. They had moved down from the canal so promptly - can it be that the waterweed they usually feed on is only just enough for so many big animals and they have to seize the chance of fresh forage as soon as it arises?

Now we can take stock of what they're calling "the wettest September for a hundred years." My figures for rainfall roughly agree with the ones B. Rush published in the BN for October, e.g. my 171mm for June beside her 178.5 - twice as much as the 2011 figure. My gauge recorded 209mm in September. The average for 1996-2003 was c.90mm and the wettest was 1996 - 150mm. So this is what the Jet Stream is doing to us, as it swerves well south of its usual course. At least Burton has been spared the chaos and hardship of the recent Carlisle and Cockermouth floods - to say nothing of the catastrophes that have hit Spain, the Philippines, Australia. No major rivers threaten us here, no mountainsides are about to pour down avalanches of mud or rock or snow. The most closely

I was ever threatened by flood was when we were driving up a main street in Malta in 1996, in heavy rain. A heaving, frothing torrent of reddish-brown water came at us between the houses and we had to zoom off up a hilly side road to escape being swept away.

An Opinion...

Commenting on the goings-on at the Parish Council meetings

NEW ROAD SURFACES CALLED INTO QUESTION

Illogical and unreasonable hope surged weakly through A.O. when it was announced that three PCllrs were absent, leaving only six little Indians, and the ever-present Dist Cllr (but only one, the second one doesn't often appear.) The hope was that the meeting would be shorter. But the hope was unfounded, as there was plenty to discuss, especially as the most controversial subject involved the Dist Cllr fairly directly. So, as anyone else would probably have worked out, the loss of three PCllrs wasn't going to make the meeting any shorter.

Months ago the Clerk had been instructed to request a meeting with the Highways Engineer. Nothing had come of the request, and our Parish Council is not a happy bunny. Almost all present had a tale of woe to tell of the inadequate repairs (including the re-surfacing of Main Street) which in at least one case have resulted in cambers being tilted wrongly, so that dwellings which were hitherto unaffected by heavy rainfall found themselves waterlogged. This, in at least two cases, where householders had warned the supervisor of the danger. The explanations were ignored, with the resulting consequences.

The surfacing of Main Street also came under heavy criticism. And in some places water now flows onto pavements, where the kerb is too low, and so on. In fact the dissatisfaction was so well-voiced that A.O. began to wonder if the Highways Engineer had got wind of it and was hiding in a secret bunker reserved for SLDC officials at bay, probably located somewhere beneath the Lowther Street car park. Around his disconsolate feet swirl unopened letters written by increasingly irate Clerks on behalf of increasingly impatient PCs. So far these letters have probably reached up to his knees, while he is fed cups of tea and ham sandwiches through a narrow aperture disguised as a new parking-meter. "Don't bring me any more letters," he implores. "Have another ham sandwich," they soothe him. Our Dist Cllr visits him from time to time, but can make no headway with him. In fact last time he came away with a sore eye caused by a flying sandwich. "Too much mustard" cried the Highways Engineer, to his retreating back.

However, making light of the situation doesn't disguise the fact that so far the PC has had no visit or redress from Highways. As ever, the wheels move very slowly and no doubt the situation will drag on.

A glance at the official minutes will show readers of this column (if any) that A.O. isn't recording the meeting in the order it actually occurred.

A less frustrating matter was The Daffodils

Three people: a PCllr, her husband, and the ever-public-spirited good egg, the Parish clerk, have planted 650 daffodil bulbs along the west verge of the A6070 going south from Heronsyke. It wasn't an easy job, because the ground is matted and poor, and A.O. knows how difficult it must have been, because she once tried to plant some surplus bulbs in an overgrown shrubbery. It was such hard going that in the end she just tossed them into the wild, consoling herself that they stood as good a chance as the ones that floated to shore from wrecked Dutch boats off the Scilly Isles. After all there's a thriving daffodil industry there now (but not, sadly, in her shrubbery.) We were told that the new-planted bulbs have to get established, so it's unlikely they'll flower much this year. A plan to plant more bulbs annually was discussed, and PCllrs were asked to sanction funding for them next year.

The New Butcher's Shop

A PCllr reported with pleasure the presence of the new butcher, remarking that the meat was of a high standard (it is –A.O.) He hoped the shop will be well-supported by the village. All agreed, and wished the traders success, as does A.O.

Police Report

Most readers will know by now that this comes at the beginning of the meeting. So it did. PCSOs Bullock and Park were present. PCSO Park gave the report. Metal thefts are ongoing. The public were thanked for reporting suspicious vehicles carrying scrap. Also bicycle thefts are a problem. At Holme a distraction theft had been attempted in the village shop. A "customer" had asked to be shown where the bread was, and while the assistant left the counter an accomplice carried out the theft.

Accommodation

It seems pretty outrageous to A.O. that the police are put in the position of having to ask for a base to operate from because the Milnthorpe police station is being sold off. Various possibilities are apparently on the table, and it's to be hoped that one of them is suitable. Or more than one, if that would be advisable.

On a related topic, the notion that we should appoint a Police Commissioner "democratically" was raised by a PCllr. It seemed as if no-one present was in favour of the idea. Mixing politics with justice is a pretty mediaeval concept. And the cost of the official elected would surely go a long way to keeping a designated police station. A.O. asked the PC if there were any independent candidates not representing a political party? No, there are NOT. [Editorial note: There is now, see notice on page 17] What would happen if not enough votes are recorded, pondered someone. But the PC suspected, as does A.O., that the pigheaded idea will go ahead whatever the outcome of the vote. Well, we now have trials without a jury, and imprisonment without disclosing what crime has been committed, if any. So perhaps it doesn't matter too much about this vote. Except that then we can all take the blame for the system.

Church News...

Bernard Baylis, retired food industry company director, was the guest speaker at St James' Lunch Time Special in September. He writes about why he chose the subject "Christians at Work."

"I chose the subject "Christians at Work" for my talk because there is so much intolerance of Christians being open about their faith. It seems in this day and age one is able to display a badge or have a certain dress code, be they secular or religious, except for Christianity.

"I recounted how I was fortunate to be able to convey my faith, be it kneeling to pray by my bed in the RAF, or in discussion with business colleagues. There was never any objection because I was never offensive about the faith, or lack of it, in others with whom I disagreed.

"It was very important that by making my Christian faith known I then had to live up to the standards I professed and become someone to whom people turned to for help. I gave examples of many I had the privilege to help in this way.

"I ended by saying we all need to pray for Christians at work."

Burton in Kendal 36th Annual Onion Show - Sunday 7 October

With a new Brewery and Committee at the helm of the Onion Show, members past and present met up with the Children's Sports team early on a cracking Sunday morning to set up the marquee and tables in readiness to receive the numerous vegetable, fruit, craft and baking entries expected on the day.

Once the tent "doors" opened the competitors arrived in steady numbers over the next 2 hours with the results of their hours, days, weeks and months of creative baking, cared and natured for (or recently purchased/begged/borrowed) vegetables, fruits and flowers. The children's classes saw dozens of entries across the categories. On display across the front of the Kings Arms were pristine leeks, giant onions, marrows, and a leaking pumpkin that was losing so much water that it could have irrigated several acres of arid desert for weeks!

When all was ready, Neil and Ann of the Kings started judging at the heaviest onion and vegetables section with the awards going respectively to Carl Jackson for his pristine 6lb onion and Callum Graham with his 36lb marrow!

Neil Shaw also entered 2 giant marrows along with Jacko's pumpkin and there was only 2lb difference between the 4 heavy vegetables. Moving on into the show tent Neil and Ann deliberated over the next hour, casting their critical eye on the hundreds of exhibits in the 30+ classes before making their decisions. Judging was tough, but eventually the tent was opened for the competitors to eagerly enter and check if they would collect some silverware, or one of the first issue Thwaites trophies. Amongst the usual combatant's displays were an encouraging and growing number of children's entries, not only in the novice class, but across the range. Juniors took points in a number of the categories! Young Lauren Nelson took 3rd place in the most points in show with points gained in the baking classes.

Considering the dismal summer we've experienced, the quality and quantity of the entered produce was commendable. The results were announced, with trophies handed over to the successful exhibitors, with the most points in show being awarded to Callum Graham. Best exhibit in the show was awarded to Carl Jackson for his impressive display of 3 vegetables. Best children's exhibit rosette was won by Freddie Metcalfe.

The Onion Show Committee would like to thank all the sponsors who kindly offered up the 60+ lots auctioned or raffled on the day, Neil and Ann of the Kings for support in their roles of judges and assistance in delivering the show, Carolyn Matthews, Area Business Manager for Daniel Thwaites PLC, all the exhibitors for their efforts and all of those who dug deep to raise a record £5,000+ on the day.

This year's proceeds will be split between local groups, with 50% going to our committed and well-deserving

Historical Footnote by Roger Bingham

NOVEMBER 1919 - AN AUTUMN SENSATION

In the summer of 1919 Burton celebrated the coming of peace on the conclusion of the Great War. At a packed Thanksgiving Service there were 41 communicants and, along with Praise to the Holiest in the Heights, a little known hymn Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand was sung. Fine weather favoured the Victory procession, headed by the Bamber Bridge Brass Band and for the sports held in Mr Dobson's field. But by autumn as the first anniversary of the Armistice approached the bunting which had made the village 'Gay' had been taken down. Signifying a return to peacetime the first post-war Burton, Milnthorpe and Carnforth show was held - at Carnforth - though entries were a third fewer than in 1913.

Fortunately, by November a rail strike which had disrupted coal supplies, ended before the onset of a cold spell when nine degrees of frost were recorded.

On 11 November, obeying a request from King George V, a two minutes silence was observed at a special Church service. Burton did not yet have a War Memorial unlike, for instance, Milnthorpe whose memorial was unveiled in September. But a committee was formed, chaired by Dr Cosgrave, with Mrs Shorland-Ball as secretary, and Mr Read as treasurer, to raise funds for a Memorial Cross to be erected in St

James' Churchyard. As a stop-gap, photographs of Burton's servicemen were displayed in the Church porch, where they stayed until the 1970s when they went to the Archives in Kendal.

Then came the Farleton Sensation, which followed a disturbance at the Duke of Cumberland Inn, when a labourer John Atkinson, the landlady Mrs Downham, and her daughter Mrs Butterworth received serious stab wounds. According to Burton's GP, Dr Cosgrave, Atkinson had suffered deep gashes in his neck. Mrs Downham had been knifed through her rough apron and three more layers of clothes, while Mrs Butterworth had a five-inch long wound on her arm. Meanwhile, the culprit Thomas Moore, who been sleeping rough with Atkinson in one of the Inn's outhouses, had made his escape. Leading the hue and cry PC Wilson 'procured a bicycle' and arrested Moore at the Plough Inn at Lupton and confiscated his weapon - a penknife. Moore was remanded in custody but, despite initial fears for their lives, Atkinson and the other victims survived and so he avoided a murder charge.

from the district & county councils

County council financial planners spent much of October considering Cumbria's share of the Council Tax. In real terms, by not raising the tax for the last two years, the county has cut the tax by 4.4%, amounting to £148 per Grade D property. Not putting it up for 2013-14 would 'save' a further £72 amounting to an equivalent cut of 2.5%. But further savings would be required and many people think we have gone too far in reducing some services. Were we to increase the tax more than 2% we would have to hold a referendum. Please let me know what you think?

Meanwhile the district council's efforts to increase car parking revenue by requiring parkers to print in their car numbers has created more howls of anguish than I've heard for a while, as people having to go back to check their vehicle's number causes queues, while the £300,000 cost of the machines seems excessive for the extra income they would bring in. I will let you know the outcome of any debates on the subject at SLDC. Happier news from the county includes 1,139 apprenticeships were secured in 100 days, there have been 270 new business start-ups, joint working with the Police has delivered Operation Orwell to provide extra driving advice to 17-25 year olds, and trading standards have responded to 150 doorstep crime incidents.

As I mentioned last month as Cumbria's Older Person's Champion I am still considering if we should have area - or even whole county bans on cold callers. As a member of the Adults Safeguarding Group I been involved in investigating domestic violence, of which 30% of the 200 cases involving people between 21 and 30 - all except 13 - are male assaults on females. 400 Cumbrian children are affected by domestic violence, and dealing with problem costs £48m pa. Even so, the more cases are reported the better; this persistent social problem can be dealt with. The relevant contact number is 01229 582 386.

On the Police and Crime Commission we are preparing for the election of the Commissioner on 15 November. Cumbria has the best record out of ten similar mixed rural/urban Police areas for detection, but that of course means that 60% of 'incidents' are not solved. We will wait and see if the new PCC will make any difference - but please remember to vote.

The south area committee has taken up two wider issues (1) of trying to retain vascular care at Lancaster RLI and (2) to oppose a suggestion that the high-speed Glasgow - London express will not stop at Oxenholme. As winter draws on (to use a music hall term) I am pleased that the county's grit supply is the largest ever and there have been no cuts in gritting schedules. The A6070 will remain a Priority 2 route, meaning that it will be treated either before or soon after snow fall or icing. I have used part my councillor's highways allowance to order nine new grit bins, including two for

We are investigating if this might have been caused by the new higher road surface. Sandbags can be obtained from the council depot at Canal Head, Kendal and the contact number is 0845 050 4434.

News from Burton Memorial Hall

Thank you to everyone who came along and supported our recent fund-raising events: the Craft Market and the Autumn Coffee Morning which, between them, made over £1200 for hall funds. This will help to pay for the ongoing improvements we are making to give users better facilities in the hall.

May we also remind you of our forthcoming events. On Friday 2 November we will be hosting a fun food fund-raising night in the company of local chef, Diana Brown. Diana was the winner of the Great Cumbrian Cooking Competition in 1981 and more recently she was a finalist in TV's Britain's Best Dish in 2011. Diana will be demonstrating how to make easy, yet impressive, canapes for Christmas. There will also be a cook-off competition between two volunteers, and of course the fab Pampered Chef products will be on sale. Tickets cost just £3 per person, and there will also be a wine bar and raffle, so if you enjoy food in any way, why not come along for a fab and fun night of canapes and laughter? Doors open at 7pm.

Thursday 29 November sees our annual Christmas Bingo in aid of hall funds. There will be a great range of meat and bottle prizes, and doors open at 6.30pm.

On Thursday 6 December at 7.30pm, Karen Doyle will be doing a demonstration of Christmas Floral Table Decorations, so why not come along and pick up some great tips to help make your Christmas table look amazing.

Editorial...

Election time again!!

"What's that?" I hear you say, "Has Cameron et-al decided to throw the towel in early?". No, this time it's a change in the way the Police are managed. "So what's it got to do with me?" you may ask. In a nutshell, we now get to elect who we want to be the Police & Crime Commissioner for our county in much the same way we vote for our MP, and as far as can be ascertained on the same schedule too. As BN goes to press we should all be seeing leaflet drops from the various candidates, newspaper and television advertising and possible canvassing in person pending election day on the 15th of this month. Billed as the "biggest shake up in the way the Police are run in years" there's a real danger that, come voting day, there will be still far too many who don't know what it's all about or why they should bother to turn out. It is important as on that day one person is going to get far-reaching powers over the running of the Police in our area so we do need to make sure we get the right person into the job. It could be viewed as just as important as who we elect as our MP.

Treasurer Wanted

Burton News is in need of a new treasurer, since our previous one has had to stand down due to continued ill health. One of the editorial committee has taken up the reins temporarily but they cannot do it on a permanent basis. So please get in contact with the editors or drop a line into the village store FAO Burton News if you feel you can take on this important role for us. We meet 11 times a year (there is no January issue or meeting) on the 3rd Tuesday in the month usually. Duties are managing the renewals of advertisers and subscribers plus the annual donations and generally keeping us on a sound financial footing.
