Dear BN

Onion Show Appeal

Once again its time for the Burton Onion Show which is held every year to raise money for local charities and Burton Children's Sports Committee. This year the charities are Macmillan Cancer Support, and Burton First Responders who are in need of some new life saving equipment. In addition there is a contribution to Burton News.

If your children benefit from the efforts of the Sports Committee, or you want to help these worthy causes please give us your support. Please can we ask for entries in the show and/or a Promise for the Auction. Please donate something we can sell, or make a promise which can be anything, from dog walking, babysitting, ironing, gardening, cooking, baking, woodwork, car wash etc etc Our village businesses are brilliant supporters but businesses further afield are finding it more difficult to give support. This is why we need you, members of the village to contribute to the Onion Show.

There is class for novice growers so all new growers in the village can enter into the show. In addition there is a wide range of produce classes any one can enter. The Onion Show is a great social day out with a show of fantastic produce, competitions, and a children's entertainer. If you have never been before, please make 2010 a year to remember by taking part in a great village institution, now in its 34th year. If you have anything to give at all please call John asap 01524 782590. Many thanks.

John Jackson

Dear BN,

Changes at the Butchers

A very big thank you to all Burton Butchers' customers new and old for your much appreciated custom over the last seven plus years. We will be handing over the reins to Christian Holmes, a local man of many years butchery experience. Chris will be keeping on all the staff that have kept us and the shop going over those years. We wish Chris all the best and hope the people of Burton and surrounding villages give him a warm welcome. Once again many thanks to all, especially all staff past and present.

Dear Editors,

Mobile Bank

You may already be aware of changes to take place in September. If not you might want to know when I contacted Nat West re the non-appearance of the mobile van today (20 Aug) they clearly were under the impression that the main road was still closed and were profuse in their apologies.

It also emerged that from 6 September there will be some changes: Thursdays instead of Fridays, time: 10.40am for half an hour, all to be confirmed with notices/leaflets. I hope this is helpful.

J & J Barkley, Orchard Close.

Outdoors

A track of crushed flint and chalkstones led us uphill between high dense hedges. Through rare gaps we could see the solid gold of wheat, almost ripe and waiting for the combine. No farms for miles - only these massed crops, which would be contract-mown in another fortnight.

We're in Hampshire, I keep telling myself - a place as foreign to me as Belgium until these last few years when young family have settled near Winchester. Today the countryside has looked unreal and tame, through the windows of trains that have whisked us through Cheshire, Staffordshire, Warwickshire, Oxfordshire, West Berkshire. Low-lying, gently contoured fields; broad-leaved trees rationed to about four per hedgerow, model oaks, model sycamores, like the logo on a packet of Country Life butter. Herds of Friesians browsing dutifully, as though modelling for a Drink More Milk ad. The occasional horse like a brown statue in a neglected corner of a pasture field, thinking or else just standing.

Here in Hampshire the land perks up, swelling into downs, and the soil is less claggy, more textured. Flints lie about like primitive netsukis, outsides coated with a millimetre of chalk, insides showing blue-black. I picked some up, and felt July warmth in the palm of my hand, at a place where a footpath choked with blackthorn forced us to walk on the beaten earth of the field edge. Here I touched wheat for the first time - after seventy years of eating bread made from it - and brushed my hand against the bristling weight of the heads, and chewed an ear of it (sorry, farmer - just one, and you have trillions.) It tasted mildly of grass.

On the track, hemmed in by hedgerows, all we could see was the next fifty yards. Notices warned us repeatedly that this is the Military Firing Range of Chilcomb Down. No firing today. The verges are embroidered with the purple of knapweed and vetch, the yellow of an elegantly-balanced flower which Anne identifies as toadflax. After half an hour we come out onto an upland clearing and light beams all around us as though the sun has risen again. Short grass underfoot; a huge manure heap ready for ploughing in when autumn comes; double lines of track heading off towards distant roads. Poppies flare along the verge of a rape-field, whose flowers have turned into clusters of spiny pods full of round black seeds.

No hedge or further rise cuts short our vistas. Golden fields billow off eastward towards the terra incognita of Sussex; more golden waves to the west with the blue blur of Dorset beyond. To the south such a distance of sunny fields stretches away that the pale-blue plain beyond it could almost be the Channel. Our minds can cruise off here, like that single buzzard flying towards Twyford. Or they can speed from point to point like the hurtling wood pigeons which are the great bird of this country. Nothing comes between us and the sheer blue sky. The wind is blowing warm straight out of the sun. The wheat-heads are jostling each other as the wind brushes them. Their stalks - unripe turquoise or ripe bamboo yellow - flinch against each other like the plucked strings of a harp.

Believe it or not, when we got back home we noticed that six wheat stalks had been growing up beneath the cypress tree in the back garden and were now showing a few ears on their bluish-green stems.

Roger Reports...

Cuts are the name of the council's games now that the new coalition government is requiring substantial reductions in local government expenditure. If the councils limit any rise in expenditure to less than 2% (which is 'below inflation') then the extra sum will be paid by a central government grant so there would be NO increase in the county and district Council Tax in 2011. I am not yet sure whether the same conditions apply to the Police authority's and parish councils' share of 'the rates'. As 80%+ of all council spending is on staff costs (which are more than just salaries and pension contributions) the cuts could mean a drop in service provision. No one wants bureaucracy but when it comes to e.g. applications for or opposing planning permission we all want quick and accurate information all of which require 'bureaucrats'. Even so a step to cut down on quangos has started with the abolition of the North West Development Agency.

Some of the cuts implemented or proposed so far by Cumbria County Council include a pay freeze for all employees earning more than £21,000pa; rises for the lower paid will be limited to £250 p.a. Recruitment for new staff will be for 'essential purposes only' and, I hope, the selection/interview processes will be simplified to avoid costs like South Lakeland's administration's provision of up to £50,000 for the appointment 'process' for a new Chief Executive. Some services will be protected particularly where vulnerable people are concerned but the children's service budget will be cut by £1.65m and the £65m Building Schools for the Future programme will be curtailed. The Health estimates are to be reduced by 25% over four years through 'efficiency savings' and not by cutting 'client care'. On roads last year's £12.2m increase will continue - which should pay for extra gritting - but there will be cuts of £200,000 in general road maintenance and of £255,000 for some road safety schemes.

The County Council has also planned to raise reserves to £12m after they had been reduced by the costs incurred by last winter's floods and snow. Plans for any cuts for South Lakeland are still being considered but I should have some information next month. Meanwhile, SLDC's plans to replace Kendal's New Road Car Park by a Common Land Park seem to be going ahead despite continuing opposition, while a major programme to enhance the waterfront area at Bowness is also being considered. But can they be afforded? We'll see!

A recent survey by the Highways department revealed just how much improvement is required. Thus only 34% of repair jobs were found to be right first time. One dropped kerb installation in Allerdale 'required' 17 visits and the 'end to end' time from report to completion was 232 days. As the number of requests for repairs has increased from 6,408 in 2008 to 9,839 in 2009-10 (perhaps because of the effects of bad weather) a reduced employee trial 'of a Two Man Find and Fix It' scheme is being tried out in Eden. By cutting down on 'inspectors' and consequent 'reports' the end to end fix rate has been cut from 183 to 34 days and the 'good' assessment has increased from 10% to 84.% I hope that the scheme will be extended to South Lakeland. In the meantime don't forget the Highways Hotline 0845 609 6609. I will myself soon be doing my annual survey of salt heap sites. Please let me know of any new requirements and of regular omissions - e.g. for several years 'they' seem to forget to replenish the heap at the top of Morewood Drive.

Two schemes just out of our area are likely to prompt concern locally. They are plans to extend the Yorkshire Dales National Park into our Lower Kentdale county division while also reducing membership and proposals for Longfield Tarn Wind Farm just over the county boundary from Burton and Hutton Roof. Perhaps comment should wait until plans are published.

Dru Yoga

Dru Yoga is suitable for any age or level of fitness, the Asanas (postures) can also be adjusted or modified for people with physical limitations, it focuses on holding the joints "soft" rather than rigid, thereby enabling a free flow of energy through the body.

We also have Energy Block Release Sequences, which are unique to Dru Yoga, a series of movements specifically designed to release trapped energy in the body, the belief being that if energy trapped in the joints is not removed it goes into the muscles then organs, eventually causing dis - ease i.e. - disease.

I run three classes which may be of interest to readers:
 Tuesday 1.00-2.30pm at the Memorial Hall, Burton.
 Wednesday 7.00-8.30pm at the Gaskell Hall, Silverdale.
 Thursday 7.00-8.30pm at the Village Hall, Priest Hutton.

available for neighbouring residents. Two residents who neighbour the site both offered support to the development which they felt would enhance the centre of the village. They both submitted written evidence to the Council. One resident, whilst not opposing the development, expressed his concern that the loss of the site for casual car parking combined with the limited amount of parking included in the development would increase on-street parking on Main Street with consequential effects on pedestrian safety and traffic flow. He recommended that this be addressed by the Parish Council before the development was completed. He opposed the introduction of yellow lines to control parking and offered suggestions for alternative parking. One resident had commented by e-mail that the loss of parking was a concern and that the Parish Council should seek alternative solutions to the parking requirement. She also expressed her disappointment that renewable energy systems had not been designed into the planned new properties. The chairman of the Burton Recreation Trust which leases the land adjacent to the site welcomed the planned development which he felt would enhance the approach to the recreation area. Cllr Bingham commented that he was pleased that the plans had retained the historically important architectural features of the old hotel and the adjoining cottage. Cllr P Rogers and Cllr I Hunt left the room.

6. PLANNING APPLICATIONS.

a. Applications received:

(i) SL/2010/0695 and 0696 - Demolition of outbuildings, conversion & alteration of the Royal Hotel to form 5 dwellings and construction of 10 dwellings with access road and car parking.

Historical Footnote by Roger Bingham

Historical Accounts

The Georgian era from 1714 to 1830 was one of the most momentous in our history which saw the advent of the Industrial Revolutions, political developments and almost incessant wars. Yet most of these themes are hardly touched on in the most compendious Burton records of the period which are the 'Churchwardens Accounts'. They, nevertheless, shed light on day to day life. Fortunately the handwriting is legible and the spelling almost modern with a few exceptions like 'owl' (for oil), 'plaisterer', 'ffish' and 'Kendall'.

The Churchwardens had mixed social and ecclesiastical responsibilities. Hence we see '1717 - Given to a poor suffering traveller 2/6'; '1717 - given a poor man 1s6d'; 1721 'spent upon a stranger minister during the vicar's absence 11 shillings' and 1723 'expenses at Heversham in meeting Bishop - 6s 4d'. Normally they charged 12s - one shilling each - for attendance at their quarterly meetings which was about the daily rate for a workman - say about £80 in the values of today.

Rare references to national events include 'expenses at ye day of rejoicing - 6s' which followed the defeat of Bonny Prince Charlie whose rebel forces had twice come through Burton in December 1745; in 1759 'the year of Victories' which saw the conquest of Canada - 'to Ringers in ale' and in 1760 for the accession of George III 'drawing Proclamation' 5/-. In 1817 14s was spent on candles 'for Princess Charlotte's funeral'. As she was the ultimate heir to the throne her death in childbirth was received with shock similar to that of Princess Diana. Other contemporary Royal events are ignored although every November 5th 12s was 'spent upon ringers on ye Gunpowder treason'.

Appended to the 1798 is a printed list of local 'Voluntary subscribers to the exigencies of Government required to fund the war against Revolutionary France. Heading the list was the vicar John Hutton who subscribed £21 followed by Thomas Sill with 12 guineas, Mr Waller Surgeon £1 1s, Mr Robinson Schoolmaster 5/- down to Widow Pearson 1/- and Robert Bleasdale 6d.

Improved communications are indicated in 1816 by 'Postage of letter from London' which had to be paid on receipt unlike the Penny Black stamps which were paid in advance when they began in 1840. Evidence that the Lancaster to Kendal Canal (which was not completed until 1819) had already reached the area is indicated in 1803 by '£1: 1s carriage 6 Bells and furniture from Lancaster by canal' but it was underlined 'No water there'.

Natural history is well recorded in the payments made for the heads of vermin like 'Foxes, magpies, ravens, badgers' for which 3s 4d was paid in 1721, 8s 8d in 1723, 9s 3d in 1727. In 1741 a table of fees was drawn up 'Fox 1s, Badger 4d, Wild Cats 2d, Raven 2d, Crow 1d, Sparrow 2d'. In 1781 10 shillings was paid 'for birds' and there's an occasional reference to 'foumarts' - pine martens.

Mostly the accounts are regular expenses especially for Communion wine which was also provided for reminds new members and old friends that rehearsals begin on Thursday 9 September at 7.15 for 7.30pm in the Queen Elizabeth School. (Please ring Rosie on 015242 71068 for directions.)

We shall start work on one of Vivaldi's most stunning masterpieces: the Gloria, a work of rich contrasts and mood opposites - joyful/dark, playful/majestic, personal/universal - greatly loved for these almost theatrical qualities.

Later there will be carols from the Oxford Book, possibly the most famous and complete of all carol collections, greatly respected for being edited by Ralph Vaughan Williams and friends.

Where faith begins, anxiety ends

In 1653 Bulstrode Whitelock was about to set off to be Oliver Cromwell's envoy to Sweden. England had recently gone through civil war, executed its own king, and was being torn apart by arguments between the army and the government. It was difficult enough working out the direction the country was heading in, let alone representing it to Sweden. The night before his journey, Whitelock was nervously pacing the floor, unable to sleep, when a trusted servant approached him.

"Pray, sir, will you give me leave to ask you a question?" he asked. "Certainly," replied Whitelock.

"Pray, sir, do you not think that God governed the world very well before you came into it?" "Undoubtedly," replied Whitelock.

"And pray, sir, do you not think that He will govern it quite as well when you are gone out of it?" Whitelock answered, "Certainly."

To which the servant asked the searching question, "Then, sir, pray excuse me, but do not you think you may trust Him to govern it quite as well as long as you live?"

Whitelock was speechless, but he headed for bed and soon was fast asleep – testimony to George Mueller's view that "where faith begins, anxiety ends; where anxiety begins, faith ends."

Like Bulstrode, George was a Christian who trusted God's many assurances in the Bible for those who have taken the decision to follow Jesus. In situations where many of us would have been worried sick about the outcome, George had absolute trust in God, and he wasn't disappointed! His personal life was a testimony to his faith in Jesus Christ – his Lord and his Saviour. Ours can be too. Let faith begin, and anxiety end!

Lord of the Manor visits Burton

Beith Atkinson, his wife Olive, and daughter Ellen with husband Mark, visited Burton on 17/18 August and dined in the Kings Arms with Kath & John Hayhurst.

Beith Atkinson is Lord of the Manor of Burton, a title which has been passed down his family since c.1790 when William Atkinson held the Court Baron at the Green Dragon.

On 2 February 1921, William Alfred Langdale Atkinson, Esq., sold most of the estate at the Royal Hotel. The sale included Ley Pitts, Oak Wood and Sandy Gap farms, Burton House, Manor House, Garnett House, Manor House Buildings (now the Coach Houses), and several cottages & plots of land which totalled 479 acres.

Beith and family live in New Zealand, where Kath & John met them again earlier in the year. The family will spend most of their holiday in Scotland, where Olive's family came from, but enjoyed their brief sojourn in Burton, which they last visited in 2006.

THE ROAD TO NOWHERE...

August 2010 saw Main Street closed for two weeks as the much-needed and long-awaited resurfacing of the road took place.

The lack of through traffic brought a strange calm to Burton and although some residents expressed their delight in the lack of traffic, both the Village Store and the Kings Arms felt the loss of passing trade.

Negotiating across the road on foot was a rather interesting experience, depending on which piece of machinery was in use at the time. The road rollers were much larger than us!

The stickiness of the tar threatened our shoes and we had more than a few "quicksand" moments - "Just keep moving, don't stop!"

Visions of becoming stuck up to the ankles or knees in sticky tar made our feet swift as we dodged across to the

W.I. NEWS

We had two outings in August. The first one was afternoon tea at the Midland Hotel in Morecambe, attended by 18 members and friends.

The second was a historical walk round Burton. Kath Hayhurst was our guide and we all enjoyed the very informative walk. We finished with a meal at the Kings Arms. We send our thanks to Kath and will contact her to take us on part two of the walk soon.

Editorial...

It's all go...

... at the Memorial Hall. Plans to undertake essential repairs and improvements to the Hall mean that the Management Committee needs to raise some serious money over the next year or so. A year-long exercise, which started with the survey last Autumn and continued with a lot of brainstorming and advice seeking, has brought the Committee to the point where intense fund-raising needs to begin now.

The first event will be a concert on Saturday 2 October, by Howden Jones, an acoustic duo of singer-songwriters from Glasson Dock. Howden Jones have played at the Hall once before when a fabulous night was had by the small but perfectly formed audience.

Tickets will be on sale by the time BN hits your doormat so please do support this event. Note: Howden Jones don't use amplification for their performances so it won't be too loud for sensitive eardrums!

It's all gone...

Observant readers might have spotted that a large tree overhanging the north end of the Memorial Hall has been removed. The reason was that the roots had forced their way up through the emergency exit pathway and had caused damage to both path and to the Hall itself and could have caused a nasty fall if anyone had tripped on the path!

It's all going...

The traffic that is. After a quiet fortnight when vehicles were restricted on Main Street, the work seems to have almost finished, just needing the white line marking reinstating as we go to press. Whilst it was nice to be able to walk through the village without fear of being mown down by speedy drivers, the effect on our shops and pub brought home how reliant rural areas and businesses are on motor vehicles and passing trade. Let's hope the new surface will see us right for a good number of years before it needs re-doing.
