EDITORIAL

Welcome to the June edition of Burton News. Many thanks to Kath Hayhurst for the lovely artwork on our front page. It was good to see village activities growing in number during May and we are delighted to include reports on both the Art & Craft Exhibition and the Amateur Dramatic Society play performance. We know that the organisers of both events are extremely grateful for the strong support they received from villagers and wish to thank all those who attended. June offers up more delights, with the Burton Singers concert and various other events at the Memorial Hall.

Summer is here, marked by the return of Burton's swift population. Annabel has information and advice for us about these fascinating birds in the latest of her quarterly nature articles. Stephen Thexton brings us more astronomy information in the latest of his popular features on the night sky.

Sadly, the re-opening of the King's Arms (see letter in May edition) did not go ahead as planned. We understand from the prospective new leaseholder that final negotiations with the brewery did not go smoothly. Neil, Amy & Ant decided it was simply not economic for them to proceed. A great pity, since they are the experienced and successful team behind the Kings' Arms in Cartmel. We can only hope that Thwaites have a new plan that will see this important village amenity re-open soon.

Please would readers note that letters & articles must include a valid name & address. This can be withheld from publication on request. We will not publish any anonymous letters, or material which, in the opinion of the Editorial Committee, is of an offensive or defamatory nature. BN reserves the right to edit letters & articles in the interests of magazine space.

EDITORIAL (Continued)

The AGM for Burton Memorial Hall takes place on 7th June and it would be good to see villagers there to hear an update on how the Hall is doing, and the plans for the future. We know that the Management Committee needs some new individuals to join; a great opportunity to get involved and help ensure the continued success of the Hall.

Burton News will hold its own AGM on the 20th June - at 8pm in the Memorial Hall. We are keen to hear from readers and to get thoughts on how we can continue to keep the publication interesting. Do please come along to have your say.

Many thanks to those of you who have already already donated to our 2023 fund-raising campaign. So far we have raised just over £1,000 towards our running costs. This is an excellent start but there is still time to help if you can. We hope to set up a Go Fund Me page soon to give alternative method of donation. Details on Facebook soon. A further update on the latest financial position will be given at the AGM.

Coronation Bell Ringing

I hope you all enjoyed the bell ringing on the 6th May rung by a mix of Burton and Kendal ringers at St James to mark this special event. I am pleased to report we also managed the first quarter peal rung by Burton ringers for over 20 years - with the help of some Kendal ringers - before the church service on the Sunday.

As you all know we are a little light on team members, but I understand and very much hope that two new villagers will get in touch with me having read this article, as I believe they can ring bells at a similar level to our Burton team and we would be delighted to welcome them into the village ringing family.

Goodbye to Tony Clare,

Those of you who frequent the Village Store early in the mornings will have noticed that, after 4 years, Tony is no longer working with us. As an early riser, Tony took responsibility for the shop in the early hours, and for this we are very grateful.

We are really sorry to say "goodbye" but wish him "All the Best" in his new venture.

Community First Responder Funding

Following my recent articles I am delighted to report I did receive several enquiries about joining the Burton CFR team. As a result I am attempting to raise some funds to cover the cost of additional/upgraded kit. We have purchased two new Defibrillators at a cost of £1,256 EACH which has meant our funds are now significantly depleted. We are asking for the villagers, many of whom benefit from this voluntary service, to help with any donations they can give to top the funds up. We are also considering running a brief training session of around 1.5 hrs in the village hall in the Summer to provide training on delivering CPR and using an AED - defibrillator. There would need to be a minimum of 10 people. If you can help with a donation or would like to register an interest in the training please get in touch. 07967 596096 Hayley

The Burton Art and Craft Exhibition 2023

The exhibition was opened by Society Chair Kath Hayhurst who welcomed guest artist Cally Lawson and everyone to the 2023 event; first started in Burton in 2005. Cally is a mixed media artist and works from her studio at Deerslet Farm, Burton. Cally's paintings aim to capture the unrelenting changes in weather, tone, and mood of the fells whilst also depicting the constants of form and place. Expressive lines are drawn over the painted layers, giving a sense of pace and movement to the landscapes.

*'Striding Edge'
by Cally Lawson*

Over a hundred fine paintings and drawings of various subjects were on display, including several images of animals, cats, dogs and a penguin. A painting that caught many eyes - by Jenni Ross - was of two very handsome felines (most likely purring) under the intriguing and clearly affectionate title of "Puppy and Lady Fluffington". Art works from Morewood School

Years 1-6, plus Nursery and Reception, were well represented. High standard craft-work from Society members was displayed alongside Alison Flanders' attractive flower cards which complemented the floral window displays. An enjoyable two-day occasion, provided by the talented members of Burton Art and Craft Society, attracted close on two hundred visitors from Burton and beyond.

Kath Hayhurst paid tribute to her hard working committee and everyone who helped to put the show together: Front of house, behind the scenes, the team who erected and dismantled the partitions, the busy refreshment staff, all were thanked by Kath at the close of a very successful event. Our congratulations to Society members and not least to Kath - herself a skilled artist - for keeping the numerous component parts organised, ensuring the 2023 show was successfully launched. Mission accomplished - well done everyone.

Burton Women's Institute

Andrea Bell, at her first meeting as President, thanked members for electing her and welcomed everyone. She stated that her committee's intention was for Burton WI to remain open, friendly and welcoming. She said they hoped to organise additional activities, including trips, crafts and skills.

The evening was fun with Debbie Haine, our Speaker, giving a very interesting talk on the history of 'Belly Dancing'. In full costume - and with the appropriate music - she entertained us with a demonstration and then some members were encouraged to join in which proved to be highly amusing. The competition for a scarf was won by Sue Humphreys with Carolyn Lamper second. The raffle was won by Sandy Jackson.

At our next meeting Count Nikolai likovitch Vadzhra will be telling us of the Traditions of Ukraine. The Competition will be for an Item in yellow and blue. The hostesses will be Glenis Smith and another. If you wish to join the W.I. please contact our Honorary Secretary Helena Nixon on 01524 781048

Burton Amateur Dramatic Society - 'W I Blues'

The Burton Amateur Dramatic Society members recently presented the play 'W.I. Blues' by John Peel. They gave two performances; on Friday 19th and Saturday 20th May in the Burton Memorial Hall. Both to full houses.

The Society gave the world premiere of the play back in 2005 when the author John Peel was asked to compile a production for ladies only, as the Society was short of male actors. Two of the original cast were in both the original and the latest production (see note below).

The five ladies gave excellent portraits of very different characters. Grace (played by Jane Reed) the dominant President, who did not want to relinquish her power. Fiona the meek farmers wife (Fliss Holloway) who was everyone's dogsbody. Jane, the unmarried one, (Jill Nicholson) who was very down to earth. Pippa, the glamorous one (Alex Wickens), who added spice to the group. Hazel the posh one (Alison Flanders), who corrected all the others.

As the story unfolded all the secrets of their unhappy lives, and relationships, emerged. Their affectations and snobbery came to the fore as the meeting progressed; and who could forget the drink fuelled dancing!

The cast and crew received well deserved applause for a memorable evening, and the village looks forward to the next production.

Kath Hayhurst

Fliss Holloway adds "Did you guess?! The actors who appeared in both the 2005 and 2023 productions were Alison Flanders, who played Hazel both times, and me who played Pippa originally and Fiona this time."

The Word From BURTON MEMORIAL HALL

Here is the hall's news for June. At our recent committee meeting it was decided that regretfully, as prices for utilities have rocketed recently, we will increase room hire charges slightly from 1st July. This is only the 2nd increase since 2017 and we do try our best to keep the charges to a reasonable level, but they are not currently covering the cost of running the hall.

On a cheerier note we are delighted that the Burton Pickleball group using the hall has extended its sessions, as this fairly new game is proving very popular. The Psychic Night fundraiser with Marilyn on Wednesday 7th June in the main hall is almost fully booked. There are a handful of tickets still available if you want to go and haven't yet booked. On the same night the hall's Annual General Meeting will take place at 7.30pm in the Club Room. We are losing a couple of members from the committee due to an increase in their other commitments, so we are seeking new members to join the committee. The AGM is open to all residents of the parish over the age of 18.

I am even happier to report that our weekly Warm Welcome Wednesdays drop-in sessions are able to continue through to September, thanks to a grant from the Eric Wright Charitable Trust. The drop-ins happen every Wednesday afternoon from 12.30pm - 4pm with a hot lunch at 1pm. If you'd like to join us for lunch and haven't joined us before please just give me a quick call by the day before on 01524 781306, so we can cater for everyone coming. Even if you don't want to eat with us you're very welcome to drop in for a hot drink and a chat, and you might like to help us finish the jigsaw on the go! Speaking of jigsaws we have quite a lot of these now, so if anyone would like to borrow one to do at home please pop in any Wednesday afternoon and choose which one you fancy.

On Saturday 17th June (10am - 12noon) we will be holding a Coffee and Cake Morning as part of The Great Big Green Week. If you have any surplus plants or seedlings that you could donate to the hall, or any surplus seeds (there always seems to be so many in a packet!) we'd be glad to have them, as part of our big green week event. Also welcome would be surplus garden tools, as many of us have extra trowels or plant pots etc in our sheds and garages, so this is your chance to have a clear-out and pass them onto someone else who can make use of them. We also hope to unveil (if that's the right word!) the revamped garden by the hall's car park exit, which the ladies of Burton W.I. have been working on for several weeks; and Kingsharp will be in the car park with their mobile sharpening service, so if you have anything that needs sharpening do pop along and see them too.

Finally, if anyone is interested in forming a gardening group or an astronomy group in the village please would you contact me, as these have been suggested as interests which are not currently catered for in Burton. Or if you have any other interest group in mind please get in touch, as the hall has space to accommodate more group activities.

It's a date in Burton! History notes by Kath Hayhurst

This is a similar shaped lintel to the ones shown in last months Burton News. The initials are for Richard and Elizabeth Legh who built Dalton Old Hall adjoining an earlier fortified Pele tower, in 1666. The area was one of the nine manors of Stercaland at Domesday. It was occupied by Nicholas Croft in the 14th century.

The portraits of Richard, Elizabeth and his ancestor Sir Peter Legh can be seen at Lyme Park in Cheshire. Sir Peter is said to have placed the panelling in the Dalton Chapel at Burton church. The remnants are still in situP.L. Fundator 1628.

In Dalton the lane going South, after Pear Tree Cottage, is still known as Ticking Lane, probably a corruption of Dicken (a nickname for Richard) Yatt (or Yeat / Way).

A nice link with the past. Dalton has always been in the ecclesiastical parish of Burton, but transferred to Westmorland from Lancashire in 1894.

Summer Night Skies over Burton

“Why are galaxies different shapes?”

For the same reason we have our climatic seasons, we astro-photographers have what we call a nebula season and a galaxy season. This is due to the way our night-time skies are facing in respect to the centre of our Milky Way galaxy. The clouds of glowing gas and dust that make up the many nebulae which we observe lie within the Milky Way, so when facing towards its centre we see more nebulae than when facing away. Conversely, when our night-time skies face away, as presently, then we are generally looking at galaxies.

Galaxies are like cities made of trillions of stars, gas, and dust bound together by gravity. There are many galaxies in the universe, but there are only a few we can see with the unaided eye or backyard telescope. These beautiful structures come in many shapes and sizes and astronomers have noticed that there are mainly three types: spiral, elliptical, and irregular. It is possible to measure the age of irregular galaxies and they have been found to be older than spirals, but younger than ellipticals. They are like teenage galaxies. Many astronomers think that irregular galaxies are the ‘in-between’ for spiral and elliptical galaxies. Based on the ages, it’s likely that galaxies start as young spiral galaxies. Once they’ve been around for a while, they turn into irregular galaxies by colliding into other galaxies. At this point they are in their adolescence and, after using up all their dust and gas to make new stars, they become old elliptical galaxies.

Spiral galaxies, like our very own Milky Way, look similar to pinwheels. These galaxies tend to have a bulging centre heavily populated by stars, with elongated, sparser arms of dust and stars that wrap around it. Our galactic neighbour, Andromeda (also known as Messier 31), is also a spiral galaxy. Do consider here, the shape we perceive is also dependent on our viewing angle. If you look at a Frisbee from above or below it is perfectly round whereas from

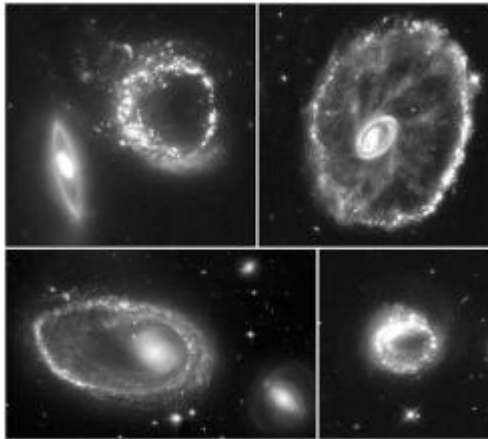

*Pinwheel Galaxy

*Whirlpool Galaxy
A collision in progress?

edge on it appears as a thin straight line with an infinite number of ellipses between each extreme. Look up The Sombrero Galaxy (M104) for an example.

Elliptical galaxies tend to be smooth spheres of gas, dust, and stars. Like spiral galaxies, their centres are typically more densely populated with stars surrounded by a less dense halo but minus the epic spiral arms. The stars in these galaxies tend to be spread out neatly throughout the galaxies and are some of the oldest stars in the universe! Messier 87 (M87) is one example of an elliptical galaxy.

Ring Galaxies

Globular Cluster

Irregular galaxies are, well ... a bit strange! They have unique shapes, and many just look like messy blobs. Astronomers think that irregular galaxies' uniqueness is due to interactions between galaxies, like collisions. Galaxies are so big, with so much distance between their stars, that even when they collide, their stars usually do not hit each other. However, clouds of gas, dust, and stars are violently thrown around, forming an entirely new, larger galaxy. This could be the cause of some irregular galaxies seen today. While some just look like a blob of stars and dust, others form dazzling ring galaxies. It is thought these may be a product of collisions between small and large galaxies. These collisions cause ripples that disturb both galaxies, throwing dust, gas, and stars outward into dramatic rings.

Globular clusters aren't considered galaxies themselves but are gravitationally part of galaxies like the Milky Way, and they have relatively small masses. When comparing the two, a typical globular cluster might contain a mass of 100,000 Suns, whereas the Milky Way has nearly 1 trillion solar masses.

Wild About Summer

Welcome to my fourth season! We've completed them all. But don't worry, I'll be back again in Autumn with some different top tips to last year.

Top spot in Summer

“Screeee! Screeeee!” You may have heard their distinctive scream overhead, or spotted groups of these scythe-shaped, swallow-like birds swooping low over the village recently. They are hands-down my favourite sound in nature. Swifts do exactly what they say on the tin, they're one of the fastest birds we have. As I watch them swoop and soar across my house, like bolts of lightning across the sky, they never fail to make me beam. They made Brian Yorke beam too. We had many conversations about how swifts lift your spirits.

For me, their appearance in May announces the start of summer. Not that summer often means much in this part of the world. But regardless of whether the Sun is actually shining, they show up. Swifts show up to let us know that it is getting warmer (you don't need your big coat now) and that behind the clouds, there is definitely some sun. Swifts show up, following an incredible journey from Africa, where they wisely go to spend the winter months, away from the generally relentless rain and cold in Burton. They come here to raise their families. They choose their seasonal home among us humans.

*Swift by Mike Langman

They don't build a mud-cup nest like swallows and house martins. They nest in holes or cavities inside the eaves and gables of our homes, behind fascia boards and flashings, under roof tiles and where there is missing pointing, especially where the top of the wall meets the roof. Swifts make clean neighbours. Often people don't even know swifts are nesting in their home, they are that quiet and tidy whilst inside.

Swifts are only around for a short while, from May to August generally until they head back to Africa. When a young swift leaves the nest, they won't land again for around four years. Yes, you read that correctly, they won't come to land again until they have matured enough to breed. And even then, they will only come to land to have their young. Swifts you see, are absolute masters of the skies. They spend their lives in the air. They eat up there, they mate up there, they even sleep up there! They are unbelievably incredible.

Go wild at home

In the last 20 years swift numbers in this country have halved. A lack of places for them to nest is putting them at risk of disappearing altogether. They will eventually stop showing up. New buildings don't often have the nooks and crannies that swifts need to get inside to nest, and older buildings have often had them blocked up. They have fewer and fewer places to raise their families. They desperately need your help.

Building maintenance and renovation work is of course essential, but you could unwittingly be depriving Burton of one of its most special sights and sounds of summer. There are easy ways of maintaining buildings whilst still allowing swifts to nest.

You can help swifts by avoiding renovation work when they are nesting and by leaving existing nests and their access holes undisturbed, to ensure the birds still have access to nest sites after any renovation work.

You can also install Swift bricks or Swift boxes. We're lucky to have a Swift Group here in Burton who will be able to advise you. Follow them on Facebook – Burton-in-Kendal Swift Group.

Happy Summer!

A Word from our Westmorland & Furness Councillor

On the 10th May the South Lakeland Locality Board met for their inaugural meeting. We appointed a Chair and Vice Chair (Cllr Helen Chaffey and Cllr Janet Batty), there we noted the Terms of Reference as set out in the Westmorland & Furness Constitution. The delegated budget that was approved at full council on the 7th March was noted.

The 2023/2024 delegated budget to the Locality Board for South Lakeland sets out the discretionary revenue amount of £191,418. There will be a ring fenced amount of £47,550 which is for specific activity. The delegated budget can be used to attract match-funding from external sources to increase upon the initial allocation. It was also agreed to commit £10,000 from the General Provisions to the South Lakeland Community Grants Fund to enable community activity to be supported.

Representatives on outside bodies were appointed I will be representing the South Lakeland Board on;

Grundys Charity for the Poor
South Lakes Business against Crime
Armed Forces Champion.

Children and Young People Overview and Scrutiny took place on 15th May. This was a very emotive meeting and gave the members a good introduction to children's services in Westmorland and Furness. We currently have 43,500 children between the ages of 0-19 of whom 8,265 are living in relative poverty – which is just short of 20% of our children! Over the next year this is something that the committee will be looking into in some detail – along with other serious matters including the exploitation of children.

The South Lakeland Area Planning Committee Meeting took place on 18th May. The committee were to note the Terms of Reference that had been approved at the Strategic Planning Committee. The link below will take you to the agenda, which will give you details for the Scheme of Delegation, Terms of Reference, and the Call in Procedure.

The Highways meeting with local Parish Councillors, and the School, went very well. The Highways Department are going to do some data collection and scoping exercises to see what would be the most effective method of a safe crossing in the village.

Yarn bombing

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Yarn bombing (or yarnbombing) is a type of graffiti or street art that employs colourful displays of knitted or crocheted yarn or fibre rather than paint or chalk. It is also called wool bombing, yarn storming, guerrilla knitting, kniffiti, urban knitting, or graffiti knitting.

Has anyone seen any other examples? - please send them in!

Fitness Is Fun!

A much less rigid approach to seated exercise this month. Instead of giving specific exercises, I'm suggesting you just move different parts of the body.

Let's recap the benefits of moving / exercising.

It can:

Strengthen muscles. The alternative is losing muscle mass leading to decreased mobility;

Improve flexibility and balance;

Elevate heart rate and get the blood pumping round the body;

Increase blood circulation;

Boost energy levels

Enhance thinking and memory and make a big difference to our mental health.

Any movement, done safely, is better than none so choose something that motivates you best. I love to move to music so whilst waiting for the kettle to boil first thing I have the radio on and dance! I can be as energetic as I want but I find it's a great way to start my day. And of course this can be done seated. Bring the fun back and play those air guitars or air drums. Singing along just adds to the energy. It's fun and maybe a bit daft but give it a go!

Smile, laugh, enjoy!

Have fun!

Vicar's Letter...

Dear Friends,

Anointed One

“God save the King! Long live the King!” reverberated around Westminster Abbey as the choir sang the magnificent ‘Zadok the Priest’ while King Charles, hidden behind a screen, was anointed with oil.

All this is taken from the Bible: Kings in the Old Testament were anointed with oil as a sign that they were set apart by God for their role and not self-appointed. Zadok was the priest who anointed Solomon king in Israel some 3000 years ago while the people shouted “Long Live King Solomon” and rejoiced “greatly, so that the ground shook with the sound”(1 Kings 1:34ff).

Not everyone was pleased to hear that sound. One of Solomon’s brothers, Adonijah, had already decided that he deserved to be king instead and he and his guests were still at his coronation feast when they heard all the noise coming from Solomon’s coronation. Adonijah’s guests quickly got up from their meal and fled!

The British coronation service makes clear that the King of Kings is Jesus Christ (the Greek title ‘Christ’ means ‘Anointed One’). King Charles was reminded of this when the Archbishop presented him with the gold globe and said, “Receive this Orb, set under the Cross, and remember always the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ.” All kings, prime ministers, presidents and other rulers must govern under the kingship of Jesus, either serving Jesus or opposing Jesus.

Some people deny that Jesus rules over anything, let alone all the nations of the world. Others say that if everything in our world is under Jesus’ authority then his rule is a disaster. To many it feels as though the world is out of control, no-one is in charge, and there is no reason to have any hope that the world, or our lives, will get any better.

We would love to have the opportunity to tell you why we think Jesus’ rule is gloriously real and indestructibly full of hope for those who acknowledge his kingship. We’re running the excellent ‘Hope Explored’ groups again in June – 3 meetings with a choice of times and venues. Details are on our website – do please send me a message or ring me if you might be interested in joining us. You would be very welcome.

Sincerely

Graham Burrows
