EDITORIAL

Welcome to the October edition of the Burton News. Writing this in a very pleasant sunny spell which always seems to follow the return of the academic year, you have to feel a bit sorry for the children's rather soggy summer holidays. We hope you made the best of the few dry days we did squeeze in. Our recent reports from the Burton Fellwalkers all seem to follow the theme of wet ramblings and the current one is no exception. Still, as they say - there is no bad weather, only inappropriate clothing!

The knit and natter group have excelled themselves once more with the current postbox outfit - although I'm not sure what the kids think about it!

On a more positive note - the committee would like to thank Kate Kettlewell and her team for hosting the quiz night at the King's Arms on our behalf - the contribution of £258 will be very welcome. We have also received an unexpected generous donation of £500 from the proceeds of the Onion Show. Thank you very

Please would readers note that letters & articles must include a valid name & address. This can be withheld from publication on request. We will not publish any anonymous letters, or material which, in the opinion of the Editorial Committee, is of an offensive or defamatory nature. much to to the Onion Show committee for this.

There are a few coffee mornings in the Hall this month - see back page for details but don't forget to call in at the Autumn fair on 26th October in aid of St James' Church. There will be various stalls and the admission fee of £1.50 includes refreshments.

Congratulations to long time village residents John and Molly Long on their 50th Wedding anniversary - see readers letters.

We hope you enjoy the poen by Jenny Hubbard; "Hard Rain" on page 16, which makes a thought provoking - and, I'm sure she would hope; action provoking, read. We have been promised further articles on the same theme.

On the topic of the environment, a personal rant, we really shouldn't have to pick up litter; bottles, sweet wrappers and even dog poo bags, from Humpty Dumpty field at the back of Morewood Drive. It gets cut for silage twice a year and I'm sure it is not a good idea to feed plastic to cattle.

Steve Thexton or "BurtonAstro" has contributed an extra article about an upcoming visitor to our night sky. You may have seen one of his Northern lights photos featured on the BBC weather forecast in September - Burton in the News!

We are pleased to say that we have had a response to our advertising drive for a new editor and treasurer, more on this in November. We would still like at least one other committee member who would be happy to take minutes. Please contact us on the editors' email address if interested.

Burton Fell Walkers Walk reports September 2024

Levens Park [Wednesday]

Our Wednesday walks are less than 5 miles and at a slower pace. A group of 9, including 3 new members started out from Levens Hall. We walked along the undulating left hand side of the river, spotting 3 black fallow deer ahead. But where were the goats?

Our leader Mike led us up to the infilled canal, with its incongruous canal bridge in a field. We looked across to Sedgwick House, built in 1868 according to the information board. Coming back to Levens Park, we followed the other side of the river. Still no goats, but some interesting old trees around. Then the smell hit us. Not Mike's socks, but the famous Bagot goats sitting calmly by the path. After many photos, we carried on to well-earned refreshments at Levens Hall cafe.

Heversham Head [Sunday]

This was an afternoon walk, approx 5 miles, 500 feet ascent. A group of 6 headed away from Heversham. The leader Sarah was aided by the group to find the tricky field exit onto Woodhouse Lane. Crossing Dallam School playing field, our first tea break was at the top of the hill. We explored the fields and green lanes of Hincaster and the Levens estate, before climbing up to Heversham Head trig point. The rain clouds greeted us, but we still had views of Whitbarrow, Arnside Knott and Farleton Fell. We passed the toposcope, down towards the visible church spire, noting a field of 'teddy bear sheep' (maybe Southdowns?). Our walk finished in the very large Heversham Church, with its parish chest and Northumbrian cross.

Finally a comment from a new member: "After much consideration I have just become a member of the Burton Fellwalkers and have completed two walks with them. I thoroughly enjoyed both walks (5 miles each) and found everyone very welcoming, friendly and helpful. I think it's a great way to meet new people and get out into our beautiful countryside and I can definitely recommend it. I just wish I had done it sooner!" [A Burton resident]

Burton Bowling Club

End of season report

Not to be outdone by the Table Tennis Club (to which huge congratulations for its successes as reported last month) our bowling club has had it's own annus mirabilis. For the first time in it's recorded history, the club's Kendal League A team won the First Division championship. This league boasts a very high standard of the game, and some very experienced and successful players are spread around the clubs in the Division.

In addition, the club's Kendal League B team won the championship of the Second Division and with it, promotion to the First Division for 2025. This gives rise to the prospect of the A and B teams playing each other twice next year which will no doubt put everyone on their mettle. Further success was provided by the Morecambe League B team who won the Fourth Division of the League and gained promotion to the Third for next year. This was a particularly creditable achievement as, owing to a combination of factors, there were occasions when fielding a full eight players was challenging. This in turn led to some additional recruiting of players as the season progressed, including some new to the game but eager to be involved.

The club has decided not to enter the Floodlit League this year, and so the playing season is over for now. The opportunity is being taken to carry out work on the green to preserve and enhance the bowling surface, and a major project is under way to renew the boards around the edge of the playing surface which have become rotten in many places. The Club acknowledges the financial and other support provided by the Recreation Trust.

Night skies over Burton – Extra!

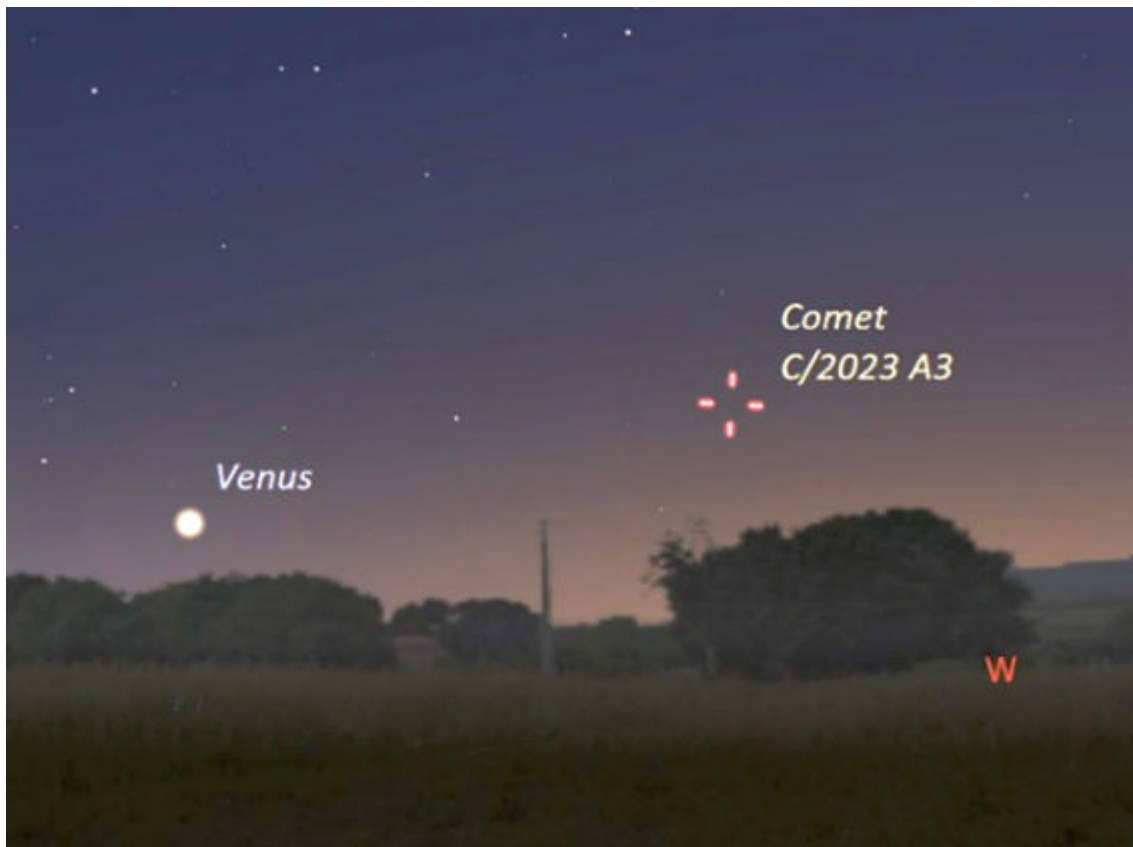

Hello all, it has been great to see how many of you are managing to capture and post a few images of the recent auroras – let's hope for a few more good displays as we move into the darker evenings.

There is another celestial visitor I thought you might like to keep an eye open for as we run into October – Comet C/2023 A3 Tsuchinsha.

The Asteroid Terrestrial-impact Last Alert System (ATLAS) telescope in South Africa discovered Comet C/2023 A3 on February 22, 2023. Additionally, observers at Purple Mountain (Zijin Shin or Tsuchinshan) Observatory in China found the comet independently on images from January 9, 2023. Therefore, the comet also has the nickname Tsuchinshan-ATLAS.

At discovery, the comet was still 7.3 times the earth's distance from the sun and extremely faint to all but the highest-powered telescopes. It is believed that it completes an orbit around the sun every 80,660 years.

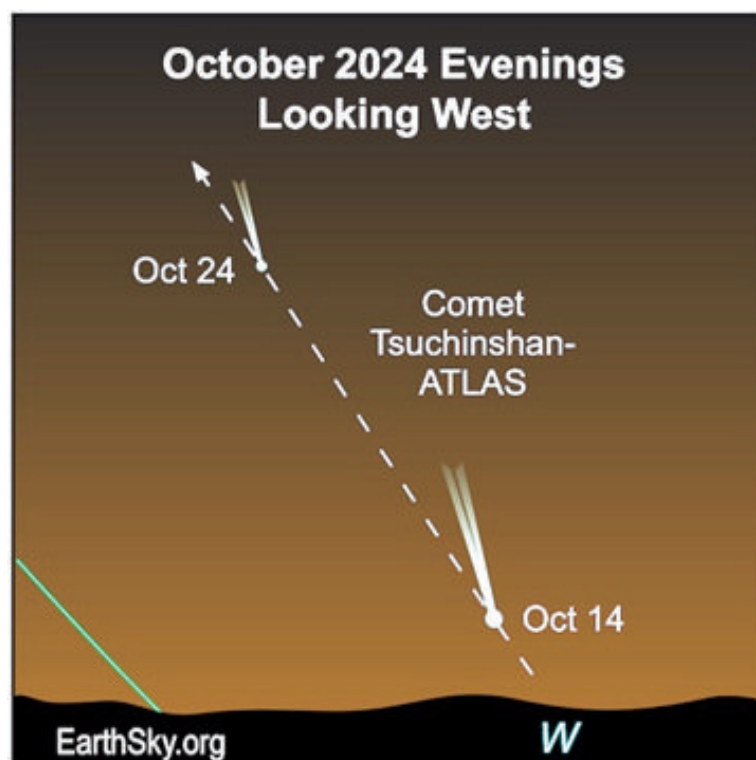

Comet Tsuchinshan-ATLAS is blazingly speedy. It's tearing through the inner solar system at 180,610 miles (290,664 km) per hour, over 80 km per second relative to Earth. You can see its amazing speed with a small telescope. You can watch the comet's location gradually change by comparing its exact position against background stars just 15 minutes later. It therefore makes it really difficult to obtain stunning photos.

At present, it is still approaching the sun but after the comet gets closest to the sun, it will swing around passing relatively close to Earth. As it does so, it passes almost directly between Earth and the sun, making it challenging to view. In early October the comet will be in the dawn sky but starting from around October 13th to 14th, Comet A3 will be easier to spot on the following evenings. That's thanks to the comet's great speed, which will cause it to appear higher in the western sky on the following nights. At present it is hoped that it will easily be visible with the naked eye but comets are famously fickle and so often disappoint. It is unlikely that it will be as bright as Venus but here's hoping!

So, if we are lucky enough to have a clear sunset and afterglow let's hope we can have the opportunity to have a glance at this cosmic snowball.

Comet C/2023 A3 on October 14, 2024, one day after closest approach to Earth. Facing a western unobstructed horizon just after sunset. Checking on the Stellarium app or online version will keep you up to date.

Hard Rain II - Homage to Bob Dylan, the poet

by Jenny Hubbard

And where have you been my rainbow child?
Where have you been, my warrior so wild?
I've climbed snow-capped mountains, their glaciers are melting,
I've sailed along sea-cliffs, where white birds writhe, dying,
Trekking in deep forests, where chain saws were growling,
Far away on the tundra, no grey wolves were howling,
I searched the savannahs, no big cats were prowling.
Everything waits for a hard rain to fall.

And what have you seen, my rainbow child?
What have you seen, my warrior so wild?
Back down in the cities the children were choking,
In slums and in shanties the people stopped hoping,
Meanwhile at crossroads, vast mansions rise, looming,
Dispensing their poison of over-consuming,
Covering all that was verdant and green
With a hard rain of profits, and riches obscene.

And what did you hear, my rainbow child?
What did you hear, my warrior so wild?
I heard only silence when the air should be ringing
With the song of the whales and the small birds singing;
I heard the tumult of traffic and hum of machines,
When I should have been hearing the buzzing of bees.
I heard smooth politicians and captains of commerce,
I heard builders and bankers and farmers and hunters,
They all had excuses, predictions, and charts,
I heard wise words of children, they come from the heart.
They fear for their future, there's no Planet B,
A hard rain is coming, its not hard to see.

And what'll you do now, my rainbow child?
What'll you do now, my warrior wild?
I'll rant and I'll rage, I'll expose and attack
The madness of money, the corruption of power.
When they've swallowed the earth and sold their own
soul,
As Midas discovered, you cannot eat gold.
They can count it and hoard it and gloat and adore it,
When the grain store is empty, the endgame is here.
But against all the odds I still will keep hoping,
For if we have no hope we have nothing at all.

With sisters and brothers I'll build rainbow bridges,
We'll all work together to stop ecocide,
Millions of people fight hundreds of causes,
They campaign for freedom and justice and change;
They fight to save flora and fauna and beauty,
They do it for love and for joy not for duty.
The rain or the rainbow – it's time to decide.
When a hard rain falls there's nowhere to hide.

Vicar's Letter...

Switching the labels

Dear Friends

We're now well into the new academic year and, in schools and universities, students are busy studying our world - everything from ants to whales, from the behaviour of electrons to the motion of stars, from the chemical processes in leaves to the shock waves of a thunderstorm.

But what do they think they are looking at? A fascinating and beautiful world shaped by mysterious and unchanging forces but without ultimate meaning? Or the work of a craftsman who is outside his creation, and who has an eternal purpose for all he has made?

Does it matter?

If there is no Creator then perhaps it doesn't matter whether we realise that, or whether we take comfort in myths about God. Everything will disappear one day anyway.

If there is a Creator then scrubbing him from our studies of his world is a big problem. There is a basic injustice to removing or falsifying the artist labels in a gallery. We're also denying students the most valuable benefit of their studies in science, maths, geography, music or art: "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands. Day after day they pour forth speech; night after night they display knowledge" (Psalm 19:1-2) And this speech is not dry information about the ultimate power in our universe, it is a letter from the One who made us in love, who knows the purpose of our lives and who has entered his world in his Son to restore us to Himself.

When the Cavendish laboratory was built in Cambridge in 1874, a Bible verse was carved into the oak entrance doors. In that building men would discover the electron, the neutron and the structure of DNA. The second Cavendish lab was built in 1973 and the same verse was inscribed above its doors: "The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein" (Psalm 111:2)

Cavendish III has just been built in Cambridge and will open next year. I understand that Psalm 111:2 will once again be displayed - a reminder that everything that is studied is a work of the Lord, the great God who has revealed himself in his creation, through his son Jesus Christ, and in the pages of his eternal Word, the Bible.

Sincerely,

Graham Burrows

Call for Advertisers

Do you run a small company offering services to residents of Burton? If so, would you like to advertise with us? If you are in receipt of this newsletter then you know it is distributed each month (except Jan) to all households in Burton, Dalton and Clawthorpe. Our rates are very reasonable, starting at £66 for a 1/8th page advert running for 11 editions (we produce 11 editions each calendar year). You do not have to run your advertisement for a full year but just for those months that are most appropriate to your business. If you do take a full year's subscription then, as an introductory offer, we will double the size of your advert for the first month. Please contact the editors on burtonnewseditor@gmail.com for advice and full information about our charges and advertising size formats.
